

U.S. troops suffer New heavy losses

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced two more big sweep operations in the northern part of South Vietnam. One force of 3,000 U.S. Marines is operating in the northwest corner of the country, while another 7,000 Leathernecks are combing jungled foothills southwest of Da Nang.

Marine casualties in one of the operations are running far above the 7-to-1 kill ratio that has prevailed over most of South Vietnam during the enemy's current spring offensive. U.S. headquarters said 26 Marines and 59 North Vietnamese had been killed so far in Operation Purple Martin and 80 Marines wounded, a kill ratio of less than 2.3 to 1.

Operation Purple Martin, named for the peace memorial bird tower built by the Young Men's Business Club of Lake Charles, La., is centered about seven miles below the western flank of the demilitarized zone and about the same distance from the Laotian border.

It was launched March 23 by 3,000 Marines from the 4th Regiment looking for North Vietnamese infiltration trails from Laos into South Vietnam.

These Marines are sweeping about nine miles northwest of the abandoned combat base at Khe Sanh, while 3,000 Marines of the 3rd regiment carry on Operation Maine Crag south of Khe Sanh. Maine Crag was announced last week.

Farther south along the border, more than 2,000 American paratroopers are searching the A Shau Valley, the biggest North Vietnamese supply base and staging area in South Vietnam. Their sweep is called Operation Massachusetts Striker.

Thus there are about 8,000 American troops sweeping along the Laotian border in these three operations designed to choke off North Vietnamese troop replacements and war supplies to support the enemy's spring offensive.

In the second operation disclosed today, Oklahoma Hills, about 8,000 men of the 1st Marine Division began sweeping last Monday in jungled foothills 20 miles west-southwest of Da Nang. The U.S. Command said there was no significance to the name of the operation.

To date in Operation Oklahoma Hills 12 enemy and one Marine have been killed and 31 Marines wounded.

Maj. Gen. Ormond R. Simpson of Corpus Christi, Tex., said about 3,000 North Vietnamese troops are believed poised in the jungled terrain, but one of the main purposes of the operation is to root out enemy rocket stockpiles. These 100-pound rockets are transported on bamboo poles by three-man squads along a network of trails to within striking distance of Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, which has been shelled frequently since the enemy launched its offensive Feb. 23. American forces had not ventured into the rough mountainous terrain in a year.

'People' Group For code

Absentee vote Deadline noted

The By-The-People Committee has taken a stand supporting the recently adopted City Housing Code and issued a reminder to voters that absentee ballots will be available at City Hall until 2 p.m. tomorrow.

The committee, an advisory group of 24 persons appointed by City Council, has studied the issue and, considering itself as representing a cross-section of the community, decided to announce its stand. In supporting the code, the committee recommends a "no" vote at Monday's election which will decide its proposed repeal, a committee spokesman said.

The committee also issued a statement reminding citizens who may be leaving the city for spring vacations that absentee ballots for Monday's election will be available until 2 p.m. tomorrow at the clerk's office in City Hall.

Three City Council seats, being contested by eight candidates, will also be decided by Monday's election.

Nationwide effort:

Welfare groups Picket store To begin boycott

By JOAN VAN WYE
Of The Press Staff

Ypsilanti members of Welfare Action and Welfare Rights Organization joined with the Humanizing Existing Welfare and United Friendship organizations of Ann Arbor to picket and start a boycott of the Sears, Roebuck and Co. store in Ann Arbor yesterday.

This is part of a nationwide boycott of Sears by welfare recipients because of Sears' alleged credit discrimination against them.

Before the action was taken, a meeting of welfare recipients, students and interested citizens was conducted by Dr. George Wiley, executive director of the National Welfare Rights Association, (NWRA), at the Newman Center in Ann Arbor.

The decision on the local action that would be taken was made by the welfare recipients with the other people present making suggestions.

About 50 persons took part in the demonstration, 12 of them from the Ypsilanti groups.

The welfare recipients decided to first attempt to negotiate with Charles W. Jones, manager of Sears' Ann Arbor store.

They presented the following demands to him:

—"That Sears enter into a formal written agreement with NWRO to assure non-discrimination for its members,

—"That this agreement assure each NWRO member family of at least $150 worth of revolving credit, —"That the only certification that a welfare recipient is a good credit risk be a let-

—"That the Sears-NWRO or one of its affiliated groups, —"That the Sears-NWRO agreement be binding on all local Sears stores, and,

—"That there be no special interest charges beyond the 1 1/2 per cent normally charged on unpaid balances and that $8 per month be the maximum repayment schedule expected of welfare recipients.

Jones said that he had to follow the national credit policy of Sears and that he could not establish a local credit policy that would meet the recipients' demands.

"I will be glad to review any person's credit rating on an individual basis and extend credit to them if they meet the requirements," Jones said.

After the talk with Jones, picketing was started outside the store. A "shop-in" was (Concluded on Page 3)

Township meetings 'Colonial tradition'

In the tradition of colonial days, Ypsilanti area townships will hold their annual meetings tomorrow afternoon.

J. Robert Cooper, Ypsilanti Township treasurer, said these meetings are the oldest form of government in the United States. In these meetings residents can air their complaints about everything from sewage disposal to taxes.

However, he said, things have been "quiet" and that he didn't know what to expect at the 1 p.m. meeting in the Township Hall. It is likely that the controversial Ford Lake recreational project will come up.

In its last meeting the township board skipped naming its five members to a joint city-township board that would accept the grant of the 1,000-acre Ford Lake by the Ford Motor Co., acquire adjoining land and develop a park.

In Superior Township, where the meeting will begin at 2 p.m., Supervisor William A. Papineau said the proposition of donating a site for a district court is expected to be the main subject of debate and he said he expected a "lively" meeting.

The township has donated a court site and Papineau said the county had accepted. He said he hoped the county would develop the site, but that if the county decided to use it for anything other than a courthouse it would be up to a vote of the people.

In Augusta Township, where the meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m., a controversy is expected to erupt over the treatment of volunteer firemen.

A volunteer has complained that they are risking their lives for inadequate compensation and has called for a "show of force" to back up the firemen.

But Supervisor Sylvester J. Blaszk says the firemen are among the highest paid in the nation and that the township is working on providing additional benefits, including insurance.

Ray hires Third Attorney

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray has hired his third defense attorney, and an easy-going, ex-Marine judge has been named to preside over what promise to be complicated proceedings in the case.

Ray, who pleaded guilty March 10 to killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. a year ago today and was sentenced to 99 years, gained certification Thursday for his new lawyer, Richard C. Ryan of Memphis.

Ryan's job will be to try to get Ray the new hearing of the case he says he wants.

And the job of Criminal Court Judge Arthur C. Faquin Jr., is to rule on any motions or arguments Ryan might present. The judge, easy-going and with a good sense of humor, was named Thursday to replace Judge W. Preston Battle Jr., who died Monday of a heart attack.

Ryan's legal maneuvers are expected to center around one of two letters Ray sent to Battle — the one which was not disclosed until after Battle's death.

In the letter, Ray notified Battle of his intention to seek a new trial.

Withdrawing Troops Mistake?

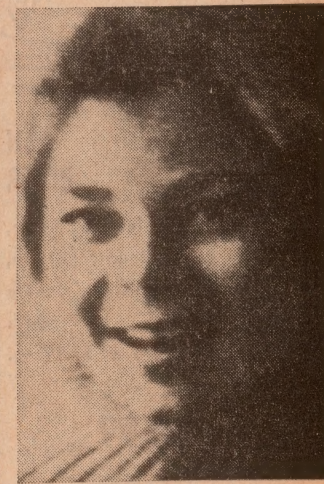

DA NANG (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps and a veteran of the Vietnam war, said today it would be a mistake to withdraw any American troops from South Vietnam yet.

Walt, on an inspection tour of Marine units in the northern part of South Vietnam, told a news conference that "time has turned on the enemy and we are defeating them."

"I think the enemy is trying to prolong this war," he said. "I think they are still trying to destroy our pacification efforts and cause as many casualties as they can. They are playing politics, propaganda and psychology for headlines in the United States. I think they are misreading the character of the American people. The thing we need most to win is a little patience, understanding and perseverance."

Marula fruit:

Elephants start Annual bender

SKUKUZA, South Africa (AP) — Summer is ending in the southern hemisphere. Foliage in the rolling bush country in Kruger National Park is changing, and the elephants are drunk.

The 7,700 elephants in the game reserve start an annual bender when the marula ripens. This fruit is green and about the size of a plum. It's sort of a cross between a mango and a lime and the elephants love it. They need less than an hour to strip a large tree of its fruit.

After gobbling a load, they usually amble to a water hole for a chaser. The fruit ferments as it is digested with the water. More fruit is munched and more water washes it down. Pretty soon the pachyderm is, in effect, a ponderous, four-legged still.

Some seem to stand in a stupor, paying no attention to tourists who drive up. Others become vile-tempered and are best avoided, say game rangers in the park's 7,340 square miles.

Numerous visitors tell of being chased in their autos by trumpeting elephants. Other elephants shatter fences and go on destructive rampages.

One rogue killed an African park employee two years ago. Rangers tracked the animal and killed it. The South African Medical Research Center found its blood contained a "highly volatile substance closely corresponding to alcohol."

Rangers say some elephants never stop eating the berries when available. Others kick the habit quickly, apparently after one or two hangovers.

Monkeys, baboons and warthogs also relish the fruit and will eat rotting ones off the ground.

"The marula season for animals and men alike is the season for letting go, for whooping it up," said one wildlife expert.

Venda tribesmen in the area have long been indulging in the pleasures of the plain green fruit. Africans never chop down marula trees when clearing land if they can help it. They brew a highly intoxicating beer from the berries. Some villages enforce a tribal disarmament policy during marula season and hand in their spears and knobkerries—an African shillelagh—to avoid drunken mishaps.

Says California president:

Police not needed on campuses

EAST LANSING (AP) — Police should not be called in to break up campus demonstrations unless illegal violence has occurred, an expert on the subject declared Thursday.

Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the University of California at Berkeley during 1967 student demonstrations there, made the observation at a news conference.

"As long as there is no illegal violence, the emphasis should be on discussion and persuasion," Kerr said. "It is a mistake to use police force as an answer to anything but force itself."

Kerr said his philosophy of using discussion and compromise was not liked by those outside the university community. He said he was "severely criticized" for his approach to campus disorders.

It was Gov. Pat Brown, he said, who called in police during the demonstrations at Berkeley.

Kerr now is a professor of labor and industrial relations at the university and executive director of a Carnegie foundation Commission studying the future of higher education in America.

Asked about the college of the future, Kerr said student enrollments will increase by about 50 per cent by 1980. He predicted there will be a larger number of students coming from lower income families and ghetto homes.

"Rather than assuming every student comes in equal as we do now with our present, largely middle class crop, we will have to give each freshman a lot more individual attention," he said. The Carnegie Foundation, he said, has recommended that 500 more junior colleges be established across the nation.

"The junior colleges will become absolutely indispensable," he predicted.

In an afternoon lecture on "discontent on the campus," Kerr said such discontent can be blamed almost entirely on problems and deficiencies existing in society off the campus.

"It is wrong to think that the campuses are causing the problems in America today," he said. "On the contrary, the university is only a sensitive indicator of a society in trouble with itself."

Ann Arbor mayor Gets federal post

ANN ARBOR — Mayor Wendell E. Hulcher yesterday was appointed deputy director of the newly created Office of Intergovernmental Relations.

President Richard M. Nixon, by executive order, created the office last month and named former South Dakota governor Nils A. Boe to head it. The office will operate under the immediate supervision of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Hulcher was appointed deputy director — second in command — by Agnew and the appointment was announced by Boe.

Hulcher, who has been mayor for the past four years, will leave April 14 and will assume his Washington duties the same week.

"I am looking forward to the opportunity of serving in the Nixon-Agnew administration," Hulcher said. "As deputy director of the Office of Intergovernmental Relations I'll be able to draw upon my valuable experience as mayor of Ann Arbor."

"During my two terms as mayor, I have been impressed many times by the need for much improved relations among federal, state and local units of government. Now I can help and hopefully help solve a few."

Hulcher added, "Serving in the executive office of the President will be a distinct honor which I hope our Ann Arbor citizens will consider that they share also. I have enjoyed serving as mayor and wish to thank everyone for allowing me to do so."

When announcing creation of the new department, President Nixon said, "By this action the vice president will become more directly and vitally involved in our effort to move government closer to the people and to make it more responsive to their will."

"Among its many functions, the office will assure state and local officials access to the highest office of the federal government."

Hulcher said initially the department will be meeting with various state, city and county organizations to determine needs and what has to be done to improve relations.

In Monday's city elections, Democrat Robert J. Harris and GOP candidate Richard Balzhiser will vie to be Hulcher's successor.

Police seek 'Incident' Witness

ANN ARBOR — A request for information has been made by Ann Arbor police, who have requested a witness to come forward.

They want the person — who contacted a police officer after witnessing an incident about 1:50 p.m. Wednesday on Geddes Rd. near US-12 — to contact the detective division.

The person may call Det. Sgt. Alroy Vanderpool. Although the nature of the incident was not released by police, they said it had no connection with the recent coed murders.

Bullet-riddled Body discovered

SAGINAW (AP)—The bullet-riddled body of Robert Hernandez Jr., 18, of Saginaw was found in a marsh two miles north of Saginaw Thursday.

Hernandez was reported missing about two weeks ago. At the same time, Saginaw police said they had a report of four men throwing a body in a river. Authorities said he had been shot eight times.

No arrests have been made in the case.

New head named At Milan prison

MILAN — John J. Walsh, 57, who has been serving with the federal prisons system for 29 years, has taken over as warden of the Milan Federal Correctional Institution.

He replaces Robert I. Mosely, a federal corrections officer since 1939 who has been named warden of the Leavenworth, Kan., Federal Prison.

Mosely, a 1941 graduate of North Dakota University, began his career as a federal correctional officer at Leavenworth.

Walsh came to Milan from the Marion, Ill., Federal Penitentiary, a maximum security prison. He started his career in 1940 in the medical center for federal prisons and the National Training School for Boys in Washington, D.C.

Born in Akron, N.Y., he attended Canistota College in New York and John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio. He also has served at the El Reno Reformatory in Oklahoma.

Mr. and Mrs. Walsh have four daughters and a son. The daughters are Mrs. John Styers of Denver, Col.; Mary Kay, who has served on the President's Commission on Mental Retardation under Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon and lives in Washington, D.C.; Dorothy, who works for the First National Bank of Denver; Joan Marie, a sophomore in high school; and John Jr., a graduate of Adams State College in Colorado and now in the Marine Corps.

Increased School Aid asked

LANING (AP)—Saying Gov. William Milliken's Educational Reform Commission ignores the urgency of the school crisis, House Speaker William Ryan today vowed to fight for increased financial assistance for both public and private schools during the coming school year.

"The delay he suggests will only serve to compound the problem," the Detroit Democrat said. "There is an immediate need for increased financial aid for both the public and private sectors of education."

He also pledged to support moves to revise the state school aid formula this year.

Ryan made his statement after Milliken announced creation of an Educational Reform Commission that would spearhead a "solid and total reform of our educational system and" write a "clear blueprint for the future."

The commission reportedly would consist mainly of business leaders and would report its recommendations to the Legislature not later than Sept. 30. At that time, Milliken said, he would call a special session of the Legislature—if necessary—to review and implement sweeping changes in the state's educational system.

Meanwhile, he urged the Legislature to approve his proposed $85 million increase for schools during the coming year, and asked teachers and school boards to act with restraint until reforms were enacted.

"I rather doubt there's going to be the restraint—which really means denial of consideration," Ryan said. "I'm not happy with his suggestion that there be a delay."

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, who earlier called for an increase greater than the governor's recommendation, said:

"I would hope that not only the general public, but many people more directly involved in the education of our children such as school teachers, would concur in the necessity of focusing our attention on education and the means of financing it by a certain date."

House Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, added that he endorsed the high level review, but disagreed with some minor points.

Ferris Position Unresolved

LANING (AP)—Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, Thursday filed notice in the House he would move to discharge the policy committee from consideration of his original resolution to commend the president of Ferris State College.

O'Brien thus served notice he would attempt to reopen the controversial question of disorders at the Big Rapids campus and the position the House should take on it.

The house passed a much modified substitute for O'Brien's resolution Wednesday.

Spreen says murder solution near

DETROIT (AP)—Police Commissioner Johannes F. Spreen in a talk over the police radio to officers on all shifts Thursday, Spreen said:

"Our investigation into the events that took place last Saturday night is still going on. We feel we are nearing a solution to the shooting of Officer (Michael) Czapski—thanks to the cooperation of many concerned citizens as well as the fine efforts of our own Police Department."

Czapski was slain and his co-driver partner, Patrolman Richard Worobec, was wounded as they sought to question a group of armed men they noticed outside an inner-city church where the black separatist group, Republic of New Africa, was meeting.

About 40 police reinforcements, called by the injured Worobec, stormed the church, firing a number of shots. They took 135 men, women and children into custody.

Later, most of those taken into custody were released, including eight or nine who Recorder's Judge George Crockett ordered released over the objections of Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan. The controversy over Crockett's release of the men resulted in demonstrations

Thursday at Recorder's Court in downtown Detroit.

Spreen Thursday joined a number of white and Negro civic leaders in urging calmness and reason in the community.

"The tragic events of the past few days have aroused some highly emotional feelings in the community and also in our ranks," Spreen told policemen.

He said the shooting at the church was "a question of right and wrong — not of black or white." He said "a complete investigation and subsequent presentation to court will resolve that question."

"In the meantime," he said, "we must continue to serve and protect every citizen of Detroit and to keep the peace. I know we will continue to perform our duties in a calm, impartial and professional manner and with the professional understanding of the tensions that exist this time."

Civil disorders Study requested

LANING (AP) — Citing an "eruption of armed violence" in Detroit last weekend, Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, has called for a special legislative committee study of civil disorders.

Kuhn introduced a resolution to "investigate, review and confer with appropriate authorities on matters of civil disturbance."

Kuhn's resolution cites "extraordinary matters involving security of the general population" and points to the recent racial incident in which a white Detroit policeman was shot to death.

"The need for a central and objective statewide review of security matters has escalated to urgency," the resolution said.

"We stand on the threshold of the 'point of no return,' and the citizenry can rightfully hold us accountable for adequate measure and action to insure full implementation for their security."

The special committee would be "under the control of the Michigan Senate for objectivity and legislative interpretation... to insure that, in the attainment of civil rights of the minorities, the equal rights of other citizens are not subjected to violence."

Kuhn, an outspoken critic supervisor, introduced a bill that would authorize boards of county auditors to rescind certain actions of the supervisors.

Included would be budget, an expenditure over $5,000 or compensation fixed for any county aide or official.

Sen. Gary Byker, R-Judsonville, introduced a measure to set new salary ranges for probate judges, based on county population. The salaries would range from $8,125 to $25,000, exclusive of local supplement.

A measure sponsored by Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, would set up a Department of Transportation as the 20th and final principal agency of state government.

Bursley also introduced a bill to expand the operating range of public transportation authorities from two to six miles outside the city.

2 named To state Law group

LANING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has announced two appointments to staff positions on the Michigan Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

Thomas Coffey, 37, was named program director for corrections. Coffey most recently served as an associate professor of social work at the University of Toledo.

Anthony Juliano was named research director. He has been director of evaluation services and supervisor of group living at the Camp Custer Job Training Center at Battle Creek.

"THE VOTERS' CHOICE IS A GOODMAN"

(Paid Political Advertisement)

Housing code deserves To be kept; vote 'No'

Ypsilanti the community and Ypsilanti the city will reach another crossroad Monday, and the direction taken will have far-reaching and lasting results.

City voters will decide either to keep a controversial housing code adopted in good faith and intent by the elected city council, or to repeal the measure and take a road of uncertain ending.

That the issue has come to a referendum vote is, in a sense, wrong, we believe, although the opportunity for citizens to overturn actions of their government is a vital part of our democracy. The housing code has become a full-fledged uproar, mainly through the work of a still-mysterious group known to the public only as a one or two-member organization.

The group was also instrumental in upsetting adoption of the housing code before possible council adoption a year ago. Because of this, the group was notified a full two months in advance of the public hearings on the now-adopted code which will be voted on this Monday, city officials say. There was no response by the "committee" until the public hearings; no visible suggestions nor comments nor opposition presented to the council during its preliminary planning work in drafting the ordinance.

Admittedly, the city administration and councils past and present have been lax, to say the least, in proper enforcement of whatever housing regulations have been in force. (This alone should assure the opposing committee it has nothing to fear but fear itself.) Also, the presentation to the public of the issues involved before, during and after adoption left much to be desired.

But that is now all water over the dam. The real and what should be the lone issue at stake in Monday's voting is whether or not Ypsilanti is to have a modern-day set of regulations to cover — and protect — all buildings with fair, equal and uniform standards. Many other communities have similar, even exact ordinances and their citizens do not seem to be adversely affected.

Clouding the issue is Big Brother, whose repeated directives to the city constitute simple blackmail — either adopt an accepted, up-to-date housing code or forget any federal funds for a variety of local programs.

Former McCarthyite sees Continued split in party

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
And JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON — Those deep wounds inflicted in last year's furious brawling over the Democratic presidential nomination apparently are far from healed.

Maurice Rosenblatt, founder and director of the National Committee for an Effective Congress and a leading peace-nik supporter of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, is saying he is a costly victim of the still-seething factional feuding.

According to the sad tale Rosenblatt is telling friends, he attributes the loss of a $100,000-a-year job to former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. Details of the reputed axing, as related by Rosenblatt, are as follows:

Following Humphrey's hairline defeat for the White House last year, he was made a director and "consultant" of Encyclopaedia Britannica by his long-time close friend and election backer William Benton, former U.S. senator from Connecticut and multi-millionaire owner of Britannica. Humphrey's work for Britannica, for which he reportedly receives a handsome salary, is in addition to his other activities — busy lecturer, newspaper columnist, book writer and member of the faculty of two Minnesota colleges.

Rosenblatt was Britannica's

Washington representative for some time. In addition to being a liberal zealot, he has been in the forefront of the agitation against the Vietnam war. In both roles, he played a leading part in persuading Sen. McCarthy to seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

Recently, Rosenblatt's contract with Britannica as its $100,000-a-year Washington representative (in some quarters it is called lobbyist) expired. It was then, he claims, that Humphrey axed him.

In other words, as Rosenblatt tells it, Humphrey is neither forgetting nor forgiving his bitter peace-nik opponents.

However, the new housing code should be adopted anyway, regardless of the government's stand. Enforcement of building regulations throughout the city over past decades could have avoided many situations and eyesores existing today. But it is never too late to make a clean start, and Monday is the time to do it with a "No" vote favoring the housing code. (A "Yes" vote favors repeal of the ordinance.)

The controversy surrounding the new ordinance has clouded another point — that the code actually contains few changes from the amended State of Michigan housing laws under which Ypsilanti has been governed. A review of the state code, incidentally, has been started in Lansing, possibly because the federal government refuses to accept its "outdated" provisions.

As an example of the relatively minor changes, the oft-cited section dealing with window and door screens for proper, healthful ventilation are contained in the previous ordinance. The only change was the inclusion of specific dates — May 15 to Oct. 1 — when such screening should be available for windows and doors used for ventilation.

Also, anyone fearing a check of their property by a building inspector under the new code should check the former housing ordinance and the plumbing code. The plumbing inspector for the past 18 years has been empowered to "... as far as may be necessary for the performance of his duty and for the maintenance of the health of the citizens of the city, have the right to enter any building or premises within the city limits or within one mile thereof."

Much of the controversy surrounding the housing code has been exaggerated and blown all out of proportion — "much ado about nothing". By comparison, for example, issues which had perhaps more day-to-day direct effect on most citizens were passed without hardly a dissenting word several years ago — doubling of the parking meter rate and doubling of the water-sewer charges.

Because the city is and will always be the core and heart of the entire community, much is at stake when city residents cast their votes between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. Monday. All other arguments aside, each citizen owes it to himself to cast a "NO" vote for adoption of the housing code.

Housing code explained

TO THE EDITOR:

In January the manager of the Chamber of Commerce appeared before the City Council to state the Chamber's position of support for Ordinance No. 334 — better known as the housing code. Subsequently, the Industrial Development Corp. also went on record favoring the code. Therefore, as presidents of our respective organizations we re-state and re-emphasize the reasons for support.

Ordinance 334 establishes minimum standards for housing in the city of Ypsilanti to insure the health, welfare and safety of its citizenry. No ordinance can be written to satisfy all the people, but that does not eliminate the need for control in the public's interest. With time, it is imperative that we continually review all ordinances.

The new code does not add restrictive clauses not already set forth by the previous existing code, but does add two new protective statements. Since adoption of the 1969 code, a building inspector may only enter private property with the permission of the tenant or owner. If denied access, he must obtain a search warrant through normal legal channels as prescribed by law.

'Schools unpatriotic' — student

TO THE EDITOR:

I am an eighth grade student of East Junior High, and I think the Ypsilanti Public Schools are unpatriotic.

At the time Martin Luther King was killed we had a half-day off. But when a great general and president dies like Dwight David Eisenhower, we can't pay our respects to this great man. If guarantees that where there is an error in any order, requirement or decision made, there is power to authorize a variance from the strict application of the ordinance where such application would result in practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship. This provision specifically recognizes that enforcement of the code must be administered with reason as well as within the letter of the law.

Housing is a crucial issue in our community. Development of senior citizen and public housing are important. The realistic fact of the matter is the federal government's unwillingness to participate with funds for the development of these two crucial types of housing can unnecessarily delay or totally eliminate their construction in Ypsilanti. It is clear that the government requires an updated housing code with specifically expressed conditions and philosophies prior to considering participation with a community in the development of this type of housing.

For these reasons, we personally urge every responsible citizen of the city of Ypsilanti to make their wishes known at the polls.

I fully agree with Miss Wells that we must be frugal, not only in the planning of new schools but throughout our entire school program. We cannot afford useless frills, and our plans include none.

Let me assure you, Miss Wells, that your tax dollars will not be spent carelessly. All features and furnishings of the new school are being selected on the basis of functional value, durability, economical maintenance and pleasant appearance. When the new school is completed and furnished you will be most welcome to make a personal tour of inspection. I am fully confident that you will not judge us extravagant.

Labor report

Internal conflicts Could topple Hall From party head

NEW YORK — A revolution Party—USA.

Black comrades are in revolt. They're defying party General Secretary Gus Hall, who runs more to fat these days than in his dynamite-laden youth on the steel front. The party's Black Liberation Commission is for black nationalism. Gus Hall, reflecting the Soviet Party's directive, is not.

Some black leaders say the party practically is dead and should unite in common front with the Black Panthers. Others want to run with campus revolutionists and have told Gus Hall "to hell with the class struggle ... there is no hope in the white trade union base ... there are more racists there than on the university grounds."

Gus Hall clings to his class struggle thesis. He wants a labor base. The party is opposed to unprogrammed violence.

He and his secretariat want a movement the party can control. Otherwise it's useless to its financier, the Soviet Union. And Gus Hall cannot control the black revolutionists. They're swinging. They've no more respect for Messrs. Kossygin and Brezhnev than they have for Messrs. Nixon and Agnew.

The black comrades want unity with the more than 1,000 black revolutionary groups ranging the nation's big cities and campuses. Some of these are meshed in regional networks. Some are freewheeling, seeking the action wherever they can.

Some are Maoist. Some are Che-ists. Some are pure neighborhood revolutionists. Some are heavily armed. Some are loaded with books of old vintage revolts. But they are the actionists. And the leaders of the Black Liberation Commission of the USA — Claude Lightfoot of Chicago and Charlene Mitchell of California, the party's 1968 presidential candidate — want a united front with the rebels.

But they are not the only reasons for Gus Hall's politically migraine headaches. There are comrades who want full independence from the Soviet Union, from "26th Street," the U.S. Communist Party national headquarters here, and from Gus Hall's obsequiousness to the Soviet's new line on domination of the world Socialist camp by military force if necessary.

There are those who were embittered by the party's vicious attacks on Israel and the championing of the Arab nations. There are comrades who literally spat at Hall during the secret national committee meeting over the 1968 Labor Day weekend, when he defended the Red Army's invasion of Czechoslovakia.

So intense is this hydra-headed revolt against the Soviet account executive in charge of the American party, it has been forced to postpone its 1968 (19th) biennial convention for a year. Now it is scheduled to open May 1 in New York.

So furious is the inner party revolt, Hall has had to stalk the country seeking support from the "delegates" — a rare phenomenon in the Communist movement, which has the nation's most automatic election system. Nominations are closed before they're opened.

In what has been the closest capitalist American politicking, Hall has been lining up delegates in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and the San Francisco Bay area — the four concentrations of "strength." In these four sectors are the truly aging comrades who have remained loyal to their own faded revolution.

For three years now, Secretary Hall has been cajoling and wooing them — and for the moment, appears to have a majority of the 200 aging delegates scheduled to attend the 19th party "congress."

However, Gus Hall may lose. Thus for the first time in 40 years, the Soviet Union's man would be defeated. He's opposed by secretariat member Gil Green, who still dreams of the moment V.I. Lenin arrived, in Petrograd Hall will be fought by Dorothy Healey, Southern California district chairlady, who believes he has betrayed the revolution.

All this upsets Hall's Soviet sponsors — who in earlier days would be called "Comintern (Communist International) reps." The Soviet Union would be red-faced if its already wraithlike American party faded entirely. How could they explain the party's disappearance at the height of the black revolution, the campus rebellions and the rocketing of youth power?

It's a very difficult moment for Comrade Hall and his Soviet sponsors, it's a pleasure to report.

Through The Press files

20 YEARS AGO

April 4, 1949 — Voting in most city and township precincts was reflective of fair skies and hotly waged campaigns today with noon tabulations indicative of considerably more interest than usual in spring elections.

A total of 686 persons had voted by noon in the eight city precincts where three council seats and one constable post is at stake.

In Ypsilanti Township, where township offices in all categories are being filled, 378 persons had voted by noon.

Precinct No. 1 of the first ward, voting today at the American Legion at 117 S. Huron St. instead of at the police station garage, had attracted the most voters to its polls. One hundred and fifteen ballots were reported cast by noon.

50 YEARS AGO

April 4, 1919 — Beginning today housewives will be able to compile their shopping lists with the aid of items brought to their attention by grocers through newspaper advertising.

Special on this first "Market Basket" page include: choice syrup put up in quart or two quart Mason jars, 75 cents per gallon; fresh raisin bread, 14 cents a loaf; fresh milk, 10 cents a quart; fresh roasted Arabian Mocha coffee, 47 cents per pound, and fish, caught today, from 16 to 26 cents.

75 YEARS AGO

April 1894 — The delivery horse of the Star Grocery Store, ambitious to keep up with the everyday street procession and win fame for "the house" ran away on S. Washington St. yesterday. It was so effective in its mischief that the wagon was smashed. A new wagon will be in use tomorrow.

'King' observances Held across nation

By the Associated Press
Thousands march in Memphis, Tenn., today to honor the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. on the first anniversary of his assassination.

Smaller observances were set in town and cities across the country, recalling his campaigns for equal rights, against poverty and to end the war in Vietnam.

In Chicago, National Guardsmen patrolled two

Negro neighborhoods after an outbreak of violence Thursday that started as a near replay of the riots that struck that city following King's death a year ago.

'Real shame,' Chicago man Says of riot

CHICAGO (AP) — "Ain't it a pain to come home to something like this?" asked Earl Bowman as he walked through the dark, glass-littered streets of the Near North Side.

Thirty police with gas masks, riot sticks and shotguns eyed Bowman, a 32-year-old Negro.

Guard Patrols Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A force of 6,000 National Guardsmen patrolled two violence-scarred Negro neighborhoods today as the city braced itself for a tense weekend.

The guardsmen were called up for duty in the West and Near North Side areas Thursday after shooting, looting and fighting broke out in a frightening reminder of devastating riots exactly a year ago following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Church Strife Mourned

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Deeply saddened by the strife inside his Church, Pope Paul VI fasted today with millions of other Catholics to mourn the crucified Christ.

The Pope removed the ring of his office as a sign of mourning for the death of Christ to redeem mankind. The bells of Rome's 500 churches will remain silent and altars stay bare until Saturday night.

The troubled areas were relatively quiet during the night — with guardsmen patrolling in jeeps and trucks, a curfew in effect, and liquor, gasoline in containers and firearm sales banned.

The 71-year-old pontiff was taking part in two major services in Rome—the "Dry Mass" in the Rome Basilica of St. Mary Major and a torchlit Way of the Cross procession in the shadow of the Colosseum.

So far during his Holy Week addresses, Pope Paul has made major pronouncements on the disarray in the Roman Catholic Church. He has severely condemned several developments which followed the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

But the closing of schools today—in observance of Good Friday—and a Saturday peace march expected to attract 3,000 out-of-towners added to police apprehension.

He spoke out during a general audience Wednesday against priests who are "crucifying the Church," by refusing to submit to authority, or by quitting to marry.

On Thursday, he went farther and deplored "a practically schismatic ferment" tormenting his church.

King's successor as head of the SCLC, arrived in Memphis Thursday night to head the march and lead the services outside City Hall.

King's widow, Coretta, said she would not participate in public observances today or over the weekend. She planned to visit her husband's grave in Atlanta with her children.

She praised the SCLC's plans which she said were designed "to encourage the desperate need for reconciliation and redemption in order to bring about a just and peaceful nation where brotherhood can become the order of society."

There were also outbreaks in two Michigan cities. Flint police arrested 17 youths in a series of incidents after a memorial rally for King.

Most of California, according to the doomsday prophets, was supposed to have been broken away from the rest of the United States by a gigantic earthquake today. (AP Photo)

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Glen Chedester entered the "Battle of Good Friday" armed only with medical supplies. He didn't carry a gun, never had and never would during his 12 months in Vietnam.

Yet he came out of Vietnam a decorated hero.

It was April 12, 1968, two days before Easter. Sunrise was two hours away when 800 to 1,000 enemy attacked the American camp of 300 men north of Saigon.

Before daybreak, 20 GIs would die and 50 would lie wounded. Nearly 200 enemy soldiers would meet death.

Safety increasing for new mom

By HUGH W. BRENNEMAN
Michigan State
Medical Society

A maternal mortality study is a project which began in 1950 in which the death of every woman which occurred from the onset of pregnancy until three months after delivery is carefully reviewed and studied by examining all the details leading up to that death.

A considerable amount of data has already been accumulated.

The entire study is set up on a practical basis. By reviewing in detail all the events leading up to maternal deaths doctors can evaluate the various causes of maternal death as well as determine the kinds of treatment and techniques which might be discarded or modified and also those which have proven most valuable and merit further use and future study.

This information is used as material for lectures to the medical societies, to medical students and to staffs of hospitals and also provides invaluable information for publication in medical journals. In this way it can continue to help improve the quality of medical care and reduce still further the maternal mortality rate.

There has been a very dramatic reduction in such deaths. In fact in no other medical specialty has progress been more striking than in obstetrics.

A study of maternal deaths from 1926 to 1928 revealed that more than 66 women died during pregnancy for every 10,000 babies born alive.

In 1959 however, there were less than 4 deaths for every 10,000 live births. The reduction to 4 in just 30 years, is quite an accomplishment. In fact it has been said that today having a baby in Michigan is safer than driving across the continent and back.

One of the reasons for this remarkable improvement obviously, is the availability of antibiotics. This is shown by the fact that the maternal death rate from infection was about 28 to 10,000 live births in 1928, in 1959 the rate was less than 1.

This is certainly due in large part to the antibiotics. In this connection, I should like to point out that deaths due to infection include those that resulted from criminal and self-induced abortions.

The prevention of such deaths is of course beyond the reach of the medical techniques.

Another important reason is that today practically all babies in Michigan are born in hospitals. Thirty nine years ago, 42 per cent of Michigan babies were born outside of a hospital, today only six-tenths of one per cent of babies are born outside a hospital. This has been a very strong contributing factor in the reduction of mortality.

In the hospital everything is in readiness to deal with any possible complication that may arise during delivery. Take hemorrhage for example. In the hospital there are laboratory facilities to match blood, there is a blood bank which has blood available for prompt transfusion and there are all the facilities necessary to give transfusions without any loss of time. In addition we now have a blood fraction called fibrinogen which is extremely important in the control of maternal hemorrhage. Incidentally the Michigan Department of Health makes fibrinogen and distributes it to Michigan hospitals without charge. There is no other health department in the United States which does the same.

As a result of these factors, the rate of maternal deaths from hemorrhage has dropped from almost 18 to just over 1 per 10,000 live births in the past 30 years.

Other important advances include newer and better methods of analgesia, in other words, relief of pain. Also, there are more anesthesiologists — that is, physicians especially trained in giving anesthetics as well as anesthetic nurses.

On top of that the number of women who require complete oblivion during delivery has gone down. This no doubt reflects better knowledge about pregnancy and labor by the average woman.

Classes for expectant parents have helped women to think of pregnancy and labor as normal biologic processes. Many of the unfounded fears about pregnancy have been eliminated and most women now regard the contractions of labor as only a physiologic discomfort. They understand its cause and instead of being afraid they are anxious to cooperate in delivering the baby so that they can have the great satisfaction of taking part in what is, in fact, a grand accomplishment.

The fact that women of today are so much better informed has a lot to do with the progress that has been made.

This has led to wide acceptance of prenatal care both on the part of the expectant mother and the physician. Since 1920 the importance of good prenatal care has been appreciated by more and more physicians and has been accepted by more and more patients until today it has become almost standard practice.

GOP women Slate tour Of Capital

LANSING (AP)—A tour of the White House and dinner with Mrs. Richard Nixon and her daughters will be among the attraction of a trip to Washington April 14-17 by a group of Michigan Republican women.

The Michigan delegation to the 17th annual Republican Women's Conference also will meet former Gov. George Romney, now secretary of housing and urban development; Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich.; and the state's 12 Republican congressmen.

The women will breakfast with the senator and congressmen, have afternoon tea with the Romney family and will meet the family of President Nixon during the evening.

Mrs. John Riecker, Republican state central committee vice chairman and state women's conference chairman, said 100 may go.

Tiger wives enjoy sun But fight living costs

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Florida's weather was colder in February and March than in most previous years, but wives of the world champion Detroit Tigers didn't mind too much.

Detroit had a mild winter this year, but even if the Florida weather was unseasonably cool, it was welcomed by Tiger wives — comparing it with Detroit's normally freezing and usually snow-filled February and March.

Fourteen wives made the trip with their husbands this year, although the player-owner dispute delayed the arrival for spring training of most of the players.

"I always look forward to coming to Florida," said Connie Sparma, wife of Tiger pitcher Joe Sparma. "Just having sunshine is enough for me."

About half of the wives stay at Lakeland's Acorn Motel, primarily because of its kitchenette units. The players are paid $12 a day by the club for meal money and $4.50 for living expenses, plus an additional $40 a week for spending.

If a family has to eat out three times a day, seven-days a week it amounts to quite a bit of money.

However, for Pat Horton the situation was different and she has since returned to Detroit because of an inability to find a place to stay.

"It's impossible to find a place down here for colored people," said the wife of Tiger slugger Willie Horton. "Last year I was down here 10 days and it was like a vacation because we did a lot of sightseeing. But this year I wasn't able to find suitable housing."

"I started in January trying to get someone down here to find us a place but there just weren't any."

Mrs. Horton stayed at the Holiday Inn with her two children for a week. Several other Tiger families stay there and others find apartments in the area. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lasher have their own trailer in a nearby camp.

"It is almost impossible to live in a hotel with your children," Mrs. Horton added. "If they want a glass of milk at 7 a.m. they don't understand that the restaurant isn't open."

Lodge member Wins area post

A member of the Washtenaw Rebekah Lodge No. 270 has been elected to a district office.

She is Mrs. Rhoda Fay of Dearborn, a longtime member of the Ypsilanti area lodge.

She will serve as district treasurer, which puts her in line for yearly promotions which usually lead to being president of the district. District No. 10 includes lodges in central southern Michigan, two of which are in Ann Arbor, and the Washtenaw lodge, which is mainly Ypsilanti area members. Mrs. Fay was congratulated at the lodge meeting on Wednesday night at the IOOF Hall. Her election had been Monday at a district meeting in Blissfield, which had been attended by 14 Washtenaw members, including the lodge's four past presidents of the district.

Mrs. Fay is a former resident of Ypsilanti and has kept her membership active ever since moving to Dearborn over 10 years ago. A widow, she retired a year ago. She is a past noble grand of the Washtenaw lodge and is at present conductor.

On Monday, the Southeastern Memorial Association meeting will be in Wayne, with four representatives to attend.

At this week's meeting, refreshments were served amid Easter decorations by Mrs. Clare Hawker, Mrs. Leland Gray and Mrs. Clifford Yates.

Pythian Sisters Initiate member

About 30 members attended the Pythian Sisters Huron Temple No. 66 meeting Wednesday at the Pythian Hall.

A new member who was initiated is Mrs. Milford Osborn, Jr.

It was reported that Mrs. Harry McGraw is remaining in Ridgewood Hospital.

The most excellent chief, Mrs. Otis Toozee, appointed Mrs. Samuel Jennings, Mrs. Newton Davis, and Mrs. Raymond Yoakum to a committee to select a girl to attend the Pythian Recreation Center during the summer at Burt Lake.

The group draped the charter for a past grand chief (state) Meta McKenny Skelton of Tecumseh who died in March, with a eulogy given by Mrs. Davis.

Refreshments, served from a table centered with tulips and candles, were arranged by Mrs. Letha Heath, Mrs. Margaret McBride, and Mrs. DeVerde L. Crow.

Ham tips To aid Jaycees

Raisin sauce such as served at Shuler's restaurants is one of the features of the ham dinners the Jaycees will be providing on Sunday.

There are still hams available and orders are still being taken, Jaycee members report, for those Ypsilanti area hostesses who want to eat at home on Easter Sunday without the work of home cooking.

The Jaycees obtained the 200 hams at Smithfield, Va., which is considered the ham capital of the world. They since have discovered the Smithfield long-cured ham is often the starting point for gourmet ham recipes in Europe — a local restaurateur has found in several European cookbooks he owns several ham recipes that specify the Smithfield ham being used.

The raisin sauce will be provided separately by the Jaycees when they package the complete ham dinner, which includes candied sweet potatoes. The ham — 10 to 12 pounds, will be garnished with pineapple rings, cloves, brown sugar and cherries.

The special raisin sauce and tips on ham-preparation were provided by Win Schuler himself, who was enthused about helping a group in an area he has chosen to start another of his dining establishments. A group of Jaycee members went to Jackson, and the Shuler's headquarters and met with Shuler and the future manager for the Plymouth Rd.-US 23 location.

For information on the dinner, which may still be ordered, call Jerry Elmer, at 483-9449 or Pat Burroughs at 483-9323, or contact any Jaycee member.

Area PEO Dinner Slated

The PEO Reciprocity meeting will be at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Woods at 2022 Washtenaw Ave.

A potluck dinner is planned, with chapter DL of Ypsilanti handling arrangements for the food, with Mrs. Harry L. Smith as chairman. Nine chapters will be taking part, with three representatives from each to attend.

The speaker will be Robert McNamee, husband of an Ann Arbor Chapter BR member. He will speak on "Africa in 1968." An engineer, he is with McNamee, Porter and Seeley in Ann Arbor. The McNamees took a trip to Africa last fall, and their slides will be shown to illustrate the talk.

All unaffiliated PEO members are welcome to attend.

Moms' Club Meet set

The meeting of the Mothers' Service Club of the Boys' Club of Ypsilanti will be on April 14 rather than next Monday as previously announced.

Plans for the bake sale on April 19 and the carnival in May will be furthered at the meeting, at the Boys' Club.

Anyone wishing to make donations for the bake sale may call the club president, Mrs. Warren Wyman, or Mrs. Harold Humberger at 483-3345 for details.

MRS. DON E. GAMBLE
(The former Miss Vicky Mindel)

Bells highlight Mindel wedding

Bells rang out at the close of the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Vicky Mindel of Willis and Don E. Gamble of New Carlisle, Ind.

The bride, who was given in marriage by both her mother and father, is the daughter of the William Mindels of 9623 Judd Rd., Willis.

The bridegroom is the son of the Earl Gambles of New Carlisle.

The wedding took place at the Lincoln Community Church with the bride's brother-in-law, the Rev. Darrel Osborn, officiating, and Mrs. Robert Malick providing music and David Jones singing. The pealing of bells marked the close of the ceremony.

For the wedding, the bride wore a white satin gown overlaid with Chantilly lace and a tiered bridal veil held to a sequin and pearl crown. She carried yellow and white roses on her mother's keepsake wedding book.

Her maid of honor was her sister, Mrs. James (Barbara) Wagner, who wore a Mediterranean blue gown, and bridesmaids were her sister, Mrs. Darrel (Betty) Osborn who wore orchids, her sister-in-law, Mrs. William (Karen) Mindel who wore pink, and her niece, Miss Judy Wagner who wore light blue. They carried gladioli and mum bouquets.

Best man for his brother was Jon Gamble, and ushers were the bride's brother, Ernest; her cousin, Tim Mindel; the bridegroom's brother-in-law, George Insworth, and Gale Korn.

The bride's mother wore a cream color dress for the wedding, the bridegroom's mother, a blue suit, and the bridegroom's grandmother, a navy blue suit. All had white carnation corsages.

The reception followed in the fellowship hall, with guests including residents of South Bend, and New Carlisle, Ind., and Petoskey.

Crush fruit

A clever way to crush fresh pineapple is to run it through your meat grinder. And, with a little liquid added, you can also crush pineapple in seconds in an electric blender.

Crockett to stand by decision

Detroit judge does admit he may have been wrong

DETROIT (AP) — Though he admits he may have been wrong, Judge George W. Crockett is sticking by his decision in ordering the release last week of more than 100 prisoners held briefly after a shooting incident which left a policeman dead and another wounded.

Four Negroes were also wounded in a hail of gunfire at a Detroit church which had been rented by the militant Republic of New Africa for a national convention.

"It was my thinking—I may be wrong—but it was my thinking that the making of nitrate tests is a critical stage of the prosecution," Judge Crockett said Thursday in a news conference called to explain his views. He said he felt his actions were legal, proper and moral.

Nitrate tests are used by police to determine if persons have fired guns recently.

The best way "to avert the kind of social disaster that occurred in 1967 is prompt judicial action with strict observance of constitutional rights," Crockett told newsmen.

On the eve of the first anniversary of the assassination of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh issued a plea for restraint.

As Crockett prepared to address the packed courtroom on the second floor of Recorder's Court, crowds of supporters and opponents picketed below, separated by uniformed policemen.

There were no clashes between the two groups, one consisting of about 1,000 youths, mostly Negro, and the other off-duty policemen.

Both groups later observed a court order signed by all the judges of Recorder's Court, including Crockett, to stop picketing while court was in session.

Meanwhile, officials of New Detroit, the organization created to rebuild the city after the devastating 1967 riot, jumped to Crockett's defense.

The group's chairman, financier, Max Fisher praised Crockett's "very good judgement."

New Detroit President William T. Patrick wrote Crockett:

"You may well have spared the community of most disastrous consequences as the result of your forthright stand."

The incident that sparked the controversy started when two patrolmen were ambushed while checking a group of Negroes they saw carrying rifles after the adjournment of a rally of the Republic of Africa.

When reinforcements arrived they found one policeman dead and the other seriously wounded.

A charge by officers into the church where the rally had been held resulted in four Negroes slightly wounded and 142 arrests.

"There should be some kind of fact-finding committee that will do more than the mayor of this city does in reiterating the police versions as a matter of fact," said Rep. John D. Conyers, D-Mich.

Conyers blamed the news media for accepting official versions of incidents and proposed a committee "that will sit down in a nonpublic fashion with the mass communications media and try to get them to stop this inflammatory writing and publicizing that is going on."

THE GOVERNOR
Announced establishment of a committee to spearhead a drive for sweeping educational reforms and vowed that—if necessary—he would call for a special legislative session this fall to implement recommendations.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL
Ruled that bills implementing sale of $335 million water pollution control bonds could be passed by the Legislature before action was taken on general appropriation bills.

THE SENATE
Passed: HB2542, Waldron. Amend the State Corporation Act to allow the J. L. Hudson Co. to effect a deferred merger with Dayton Corp. of Minneapolis and still maintain its identity as a Michigan corporation.

SB281, Zollar. Provide for supplemental appropriations of $746,000 to state agencies for the balance of the current fiscal year.

SB107, Schweigert. Set up procedures by which the State Water Resources Commission would set priorities in connection with distribution of some $285 million in water pollution control funds.

Bills introduced included: SB573, Kuhn. Authorize boards of county auditors to rescind actions of county supervisors, including rejection of budget and any expenditures over $5,000.

SB552, Byer. Set new salary ranges for probate judges, based on county population.

THE HOUSE
Met with the Senate in joint session to hear the governor's education message.

Passed: HB2149, Young. Set treble liability for persons who damage or vandalize school property.

Voted immediate effect for HB2542, Waldron, passed earlier by the Senate to aid the J. L. Hudson Co. in its merger with the Dayton Corp. of Minneapolis.

in this town that is confusing people by the thousands."

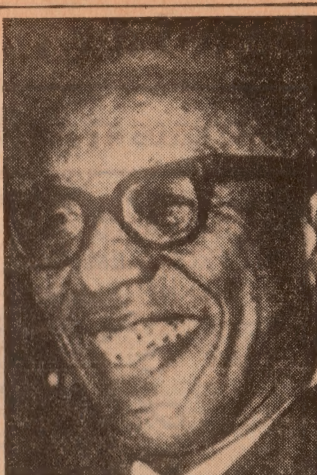

Crockett's action was defended by the Interfaith Action Council, a group working for improved race relations. At the same news conference Ernest Mazey, head of the state chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, also defended Crockett's decision.

Despite widespread calls throughout public high schools in Detroit, public school officials reported absenteeism of 20 per cent, which they said was normal for the day before the start of spring vacation.

In Flint, police arrested 17 youths Thursday in a series of incidents. In one, police used a canister of tear gas to break up a group of students milling around a high school parking lot after a memorial rally for Martin Luther King. There were no serious injuries.

In Kalamazoo, about 100 Negro students were evicted by police from their high school when they reacted in anger to the one-day postponement of a scheduled memorial assembly for King.

Police said a dozen lockers were pulled from walls and two cars were overturned.

Bill to assist Hudson merger

LANSING (AP)—A bill aimed at helping the J. L. Hudson Co. of Detroit complete merger plans with the Dayton Corp. of Minneapolis was passed Thursday by the Senate and returned to the House which promptly voted immediate effect.

Purpose of the proposed legislation is to allow Hudson's and the Dayton Corp. to transfer stock and capital to a third-party holding company. Under present Michigan corporation laws Hudson's, as the smaller of the merging parties, would be absorbed by the Dayton Corp.

Detroit reservist Back in stockade

FT. RILEY, Kan. (AP) —Pvt. Tom Sincavitch of Detroit, arrested last month during an antiwar vigil in a Detroit inner city church, is back in the Ft. Riley stockade after refusing to report to active duty as ordered by an Army courtmartial.

An Army spokesman said Thursday no specific charges had been filed against him.

He was convicted by a special courtmartial Tuesday for being absent without leave. He was given a suspended six-month sentence at hard labor, fined $70 a month for six months, and ordered to active duty.

Sincavitch was assigned to the 2nd Squadron, 9th Cavalry, 24th Division at Ft. Riley, but he refused to sign the unit's roster and he refused to sign for his equipment, the spokesman said. He then was returned to the stockade.

Sincavitch tried to resign from the Army Reserve last June after being ordered to take riot control training, which he called racist and hypocritical.

He was arrested in Detroit March 12 by FBI agents. Sincavitch was joined by more than 40 antiwar protesters who temporarily adopted his name in an unsuccessful attempt to confuse the federal agents.

School vandals to become Liable for triple damages

LANSING (AP) — Working to clear its calendar for the coming week's Easter recess, the House Thursday adopted one measure designed to curb school vandalism and moved nine other bills into position for final action.

Debate over hunting licenses for minors and a statute of limitations on dramshop suits prevented the lower chamber from adjourning with a completely clean and tidy calendar.

After meeting earlier Thursday in joint session with the Senate to hear an education message by Gov. William A. Milliken, dwindling numbers of diehard representatives worked on amid a last-minute push to introduce more bills.

Clerks stayed on more than an hour after the legislators to read in late bills.

The lone bill passed and sent to the Senate would hold anyone charged with vandalism or "malicious damage" of school property to be liable for triple damages.

Parents, however, would not be held liable for more than $1,500 in damages by their child.

After some floor discussion, the House moved into position for final action a bill to require courses in gun handling and hunting safety for anyone under age 17 who applies for a state hunting license.

Introduced by Rep. Robert Mahoney, D-Detroit, the bill would deny all minors under 12 from being licensed. Those 12 to through 16 would be required to meet any of several requirements:

—Have already been granted a license. A Canadian provincial license would be acceptable under the bill.

—Complete a course in hunting safety given by the Natural Resources Department.

—Or take a related test.

A fee of $1.50 would be charged each applicant and credited to the Fish and Game Protection Fund.

Rep. James Smith, R-Davison, objected for a time to the bill.

"My 7-year-old shot three pheasants last season," Smith said. "A lot of guys 37 (years old) can't do that."

He contended the bill would prevent any youngsters, competent in handling firearms, from joining their dads.

Rep. Joseph Snyder, D-St. Clair Shores, called the bill "a most progressive thing—a monument to Rep. Mahoney."

Mahoney, who is blind, introduced his bill after he was sold a hunting license at a J.L. Hudson Co. store.

Commenting on his own hunting activities, Mahoney told the House, "whenever I go hunting I take a slingshot, and I use marshmallows for ammunition."

Also producing more than routine discussion was a bill to reduce the period for filing damage suits against tavern operators.

The current statute of limitations on dramshop suits against the person who sells the drink, rather than against the drinker, is two years.

Rep. E.D. O'Brien offered a bill to amend state liquor control laws to require suits to be filed within six months, but the House Thursday amended that to one year.

Debate focused on the question of whether the bill would benefit lawyers more than it would correct wrongs.

O'Brien said the measure "denies the lawyers the opportunity to make a living out of suing everybody."

Lawyers in the House opposed the measure. Rep. Tom Brown, R-Lansing, said, "You're making liquor the proximate cause of the action."

Another lawyer, John Payant, R-Kingsford told the House, "We should throw the whole Dramshop Law out of this state."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SYDNEY OMARR ★

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY
"The wise man controls his destiny. . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Review facts about partnership, financial status of one you depend upon. Get at the truth. Shove aside wishful thinking. You are going to get what you need. Act in authoritative manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Protect relationship that is of value. Don't be dissuaded by one of little faith. Public relations improves. Others get better understanding. Co-operate with mate, partner.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): One you love comes closer to your viewpoint. Best to forgive and forget. You can meet interesting people today. Be yourself — avoid extremes. Fine for get-together with co-worker.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): What you think you want to do may not be practical. Fine to be creative—but you have to face yourself in the morning. Know this and remain on even keel. Stick to the rules.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Greater freedom indicated for tonight. During day attend to essentials. Then you will feel more like relaxing later. Accent on reaching understanding with young person.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on what means most to you. Includes home and family. Today you have opportunity to build on solid base. Key is determination. You cannot skip essentials. Act accordingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22):

You see way out of financial dilemma. Answer is relatively simple. Key is willingness to try something different. Aid received from information gained at social gathering tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Tonight you are elated because of financial news. You get break you've been seeking. Celebrate with family members. Heal breach. Don't merit pride to block happiness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Cycle moves up tonight. New contact could prove meaningful. Be where you can meet people. Fine for beginnings — project or relationship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Excellent for dining out, attending theater. Break from routine. Relaxation is important. Share joyous experience. Outlet can be found for special abilities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friendly atmosphere prevails tonight. A burden is lifted. You have feeling of greater freedom. Study CAPRICORN message. Get out and around; be with congenial people.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Accent on aspirations. You get solid backing. Opportunity exists for greater independence of thought, action. Highlight originality. Success due if you are inventive. Stick to guns.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are attractive, dynamic and creative. But during current cycle you tend to deceive yourself. Face facts about people, situations.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Lunar position favorable for both fishing and planting.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"THERE'S ONE insurmountable trouble with opera," complains Peter Ustinov. "There's too much music in it!"

Oliver Wendell Holmes disclosed that the easiest fee he ever earned came after he had retired from the Supreme Court. A wealthy industrialist offered him ten thousand dollars to check over an important contract. Holmes read it carefully—in one hour's time—and submitted his report: "IT LOOKS ALL RIGHT TO ME!"

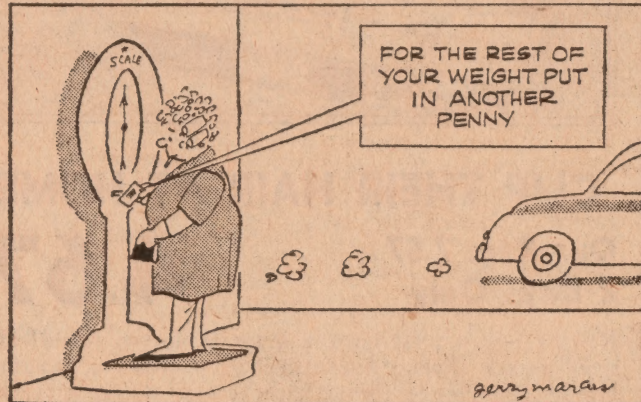

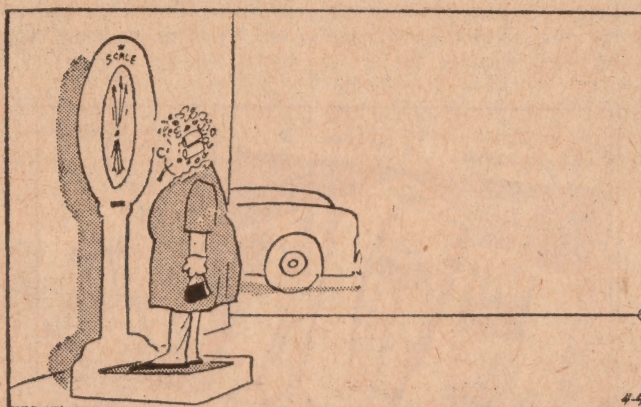

California's rising young Congressman, John V. Tunney (son of Gene Tunney) likes to quote in his speeches this particularly timely appraisal by William Hazlitt: "Man is the only animal that laughs and weeps, because he is the only one who understands the difference between the way things are and the way they ought to be."

Worth recalling, too, are these opinions of William Hazlitt's:
1. A derisive nickname is the heaviest stone that the devil can throw at a man.
2. The love of liberty is the love of others; the love of power is the love of ourselves.
3. The glib one-hour speech by an old politician is often like a woman's letters: all the pith is in the postscript.

DEAR ABBY:

Smartest gal is quiet When her husband talks

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: Referring back to a letter from the woman who was looking for a man. You said, "No man wants a woman who anticipates all the questions and knows all the answers." I agree with you, but I was just wondering how your husband feels being married to a woman who knows all the answers.

I don't ask this to be fresh or rude. I would really like to know. TEX.
 DEAR TEX: I just asked my husband and he said he'd like to have another 30-year hitch with the same filly. He's smarter than I am. When he talks, I listen.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a silent husband. He will suddenly quit talking to me and he won't tell me why.

The first time he did it we were married only ten months. All of a sudden he wasn't speaking to me, and no amount of begging on my part could make him tell me what I had done wrong. He just wouldn't look at me or talk to me for three whole days. Then all of a sudden he started talking to me just like nothing happened. I found out five years later that he stopped talking that first time because I ate a hamburger on Friday. (I'm not Catholic. He is.)

I could write a book on the different times he stopped talking to me. The record was 12 days, and I still don't know the reason for that one. We have five children, the youngest is six, so I'm trying to see it through, but it is rough.

What do you think is the matter with a man who acts this way? Silent Partner.

DEAR SILENT: I don't know, but if I were you I would try to find out. He could be immature, sick, or just plain ugly. Your husband sounds as though he has a lot of words stored up which may need to be unloaded in a doctor's office.

DEAR ABBY: You let "Ella in Newark" have her say about how waitresses felt about lousy tippers. Well, I don't live in Newark, but I'd like to have my say about lousy service. I always tip according to the service I receive.

Yesterday a friend and I went to a local restaurant. After waiting for some time for the waitress to look our way, I finally got up and got my own silverware. When I wanted cream and sugar, I finally gave up trying to catch the waitress' eye, and I got up and got some from another table. (We never did get napkins and water.)

After the waitress slammed our order down she never looked at us until she presented the bill.

So tell Ella if she'd spend more time giving service to everybody instead of smiling service to everybody instead of smiling at the pinchers she might find more money in her pocket and less pain in her backside. Dixie in Lompoc, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "No Name" whose wife got pregnant after a doctor told him he couldn't father any children that he shouldn't jump to any conclusions.

I was a divorcee with two children when my husband married me. He told me part of the reason he married me was because he loved kids and was told he could never have any. Well, shortly after we were married, I had a son. Then, I had a little girl, and now our biggest problem is to keep from having any more.

Doctors sometimes make mistakes. I've heard of other cases where people were told they couldn't reproduce, but they have. Another Abby Fan.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Care of The Press, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DR. BROTHERS:

Schedule should guide Not dictate play time

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My 7-year-old twin daughters nag me all weekend long about what to do. They want me to provide something for them to do every hour. My husband feels that this is a terrible idea, that they will never be able to live without conforming to all kinds of rules if I plan everything for them. My first reaction, until he spoke up was that it would be a good idea to give them a schedule. What do you think?—M.A.J.

Dear Mrs. J.: Give some adults their heads, let their days just happen, and they are lost. They get nervous. They keep eating snacks. But put them back in the comfort of a deep rut and they whistle up a tune. They are happy when they know what to do next.

Children react to aimless, self-directed days as nervously as many of the big people around them. It is when children have nothing to do that they start to fight, pick quarrels, and play with things that are dangerous and forbidden.

Boredom makes a child cranky and unreasonable. The whining complaining voice that interrupts mother's phone call is really asking: "What should I do with myself?"

You've heard your children say: "What'll I do now?" This, when there are toys all over the living room and unfinished craft-projects all over the house.

A rainy weeke-end is torture because the child is trapped and cannot rely on the pattern of the week. Children have even fewer interresources than big people. The adult can read the newspaper, his favorite magazine or escape in a novel. He has more interests and is more independent.

Children have fewer resources and, in addition, lose interest quickly. A five-year-old child is doing well if he can give his attention to one occupation for more than 20 minutes.

Routines, rules and organization are neither inherently good or evil. If they contribute to an individual's welfare and productivity, then they are good. If they interfere with happiness and creativity, then they are bad.

Knowing that at 10 o'clock they are going to water color and that at 11 they will use clay, is not going to turn your daughters into conformists.

On the contrary, in following a schedule, your daughters may learn what activities they most enjoy. You can let them plan with them, letting them make most of the decisions with your guidance.

It might be a good idea to have some long range projects for them to work on. Set deadlines for certain pieces to be finished.

Try to have a variety of activities, some of which involve running around and using a great deal of energy and others which are more quiet and intellectually demanding. In the schedule you should allow time for cleaning up and putting away, time for chores, and time that is absolutely free with no activity listed.

This time of freedom will become much more precious because it is limited. One of the most pathetic questions I ever heard was from a child who was given too much personal freedom. He said:

"Mom, do I have to do what I want to today?"

The word "conformity," when used derogatorily as your husband is using it, usually depicts an attitude of cowardice on the part of an individual. Rules are obeyed not to utilize energy constructively, or because it gives the conformist a sense of fulfillment and mastery but through fear of what other people would say if they were not obeyed.

If you and your husband bring up your children to question ideas, habits and customs, to live by their own values which may not be the same as their neighbors, you will not have to worry about their becoming conformists or losing their individuality.

Teen drinking is becoming a national problem. For her leaflet entitled, "How to Help Your Teens Abstain," send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Joyce Brothers in care of The Press.

YOUR HEALTH:

Homeopathy school Of medicine defined

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

Our family physician is an M.D. who was trained in a school of homeopathy. Over many years he has taken care of our family with skill and kindness and has been a constant source of physical and emotional support. Nevertheless, I always have the feeling that when I, at our bridge sessions, talk about a homeopathic doctor, there is a tendency for others to minimize his competence. Perhaps you can enlighten others and give them a better understanding of this type of medical practice. Mrs. M. O.R., Kansas.

Dear Mrs. R.: Bridge parties and dinner parties somehow can always be enlivened by a discussion of "my doctor," "my pediatrician," "my gynecologist." I am certain the same thing occurs with my "greengrocer" and "my dressmaker." All are the private possessions of those who are in contact with them. There then is introduced a strange kind of competitiveness about the importance of one doctor as compared to another.

Actually it is healthy that there is such devotion between patients and their physicians. There are many excellent schools of homeopathy which have turned out competent physicians and surgeons who have contributed vastly to the modern structure of medicine. This concept was formulated in a great measure by Doctor S. C. F. Hahnemann. A medical school carries his name.

One of the basic medical philosophies of homeopathy is that there is a relationship between the drugs used to cure disease and the symptoms the same drugs may produce in healthy people. Another interesting attitude in homeopathy is that drugs when given in finely divided doses may be more potent and more effective as cures.

There is no longer a sharp line of distinction between allopathy, the more usual school of medicine, and homeopathy. Each school has taken advantage of the great contributions made to modern medicine by each other.

Speaking of your health: Starting the day without a good breakfast is a bad way to diet.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of The Press.

Sweater girl takes Former route again

NEW YORK (AP) — Francine Gottfried, the busty Brooklyn girl who wowed Wall Street last summer, still has her old drawing power. She tried a springtime stroll in a bright red sweater. The result—an instant traffic jam.

Francine, 21, is an $85-a-week business machine operator whose measurements are 43-25-37. This fact drew crowds of up to 15,000 admiring men last September when word spread that she appeared at the same subway station each day.

Since then she has used alternate routes to get to work and avoided gathering crowds. But for assurance that she retains her magnetic powers, Francine took the old route again for this week.

Within moments after she stepped out of the subway she was surrounded by hundreds of men. Traffic stopped in the street.

She delightedly answered questions, shook hands and kissed one man who told her, "Francine, I waited every day for you..."

She said later in an interview that she has turned down more than $400,000 in offers to strip or dance topless.

"I don't need that kind of attention," she said. "I'd be more than delighted to show what I have, providing it's in good taste."

"I have no objection to posing for pinups in form fitting evening gowns where you can see cleavage—but topless, no thank you."

She continues to hope that someone will try to discover whether she has any show business talent.

"I don't know if I have talents," she said. "I've never had lessons. I'm just waiting for someone to say: 'Can she sing?' who knows, maybe we have a second Barbra Streisand."

Meanwhile she enjoys her measure of fame. Francine said she would like to thank all her Wall Street fans, possibly by making a speech on the steps of the sub-Treasury building where politicians often campaign.

"I'd like to let them know the kind of girl I am," she said. "All they see is from the neck down. I want them to see from the neck up."

The kiwi bird is New Zealand's national emblem. It has soft feathers resembling hair and its wings are not evident.

TEEN DATELINE:

Dad grooves on mod bit

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Walt: Everytime there is a new fashion fad for teenagers, my father has to get in on it. He bought patterned pants when they were big. He had three Nehru shirts and even a Sonny sheepjacket. Now he's bought bell-bottoms!

My friends make jokes about this and also about his sideburns (they reach his jawline). And I can imagine what his co-workers think. How can I tell him to be more like a father and less like one of the teen-agers? — Ross.

Dear Ross: This is a "do your own thing" era, man, and that goes for all ages, but the humor is that the fashions you're labeling "teen fashions" started at the top with the avant garde men's designers.

Draped pants have been featured in "Gentleman's Quarterly," the Bible of adult in art or backstage crew of a community theater production. You won't be welcomed with open arms but you will lay the groundwork for eventual closeness with people of similar interests.

In fields where talent and dear Ele and Walt: When I came to this country three years ago, I couldn't speak or write any English so they put me four grades behind in school. I skipped one grade but I'm still three years older than my classmates and this makes me lonesome. No one is mean to me but I just don't have anything in common with 13-year-olds except the same classes, and I'm too young for my teachers to bother.

Is there anyway I can get friends my own age? My uncle helped me write this letter but he's in the Army and only comes home every now and then. He doesn't have any ideas either. — Amigo.

Dear Amigo: Make an inventory of your interests and pick a sport and an art you'd like to explore. Then enroll in a YMCA class or playground group to pursue the athletic interest, while affiliating with a night class in art or backstage crew of a community theater production. You won't be welcomed with open arms but you will lay the groundwork for eventual closeness with people of similar interests.

In fields where talent and perspiration count, age and grade questions are of minimal interest. When quizzed about your school, preface the name with explanation of your two-culture background. No one will look down on you then. — Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: I would appreciate it very much if you would clear something up for me. Why would it be considered unusual for a boy to wear a pair of girls' capris, when it is not considered unusual for a girl to wear a pair of boys' pants? Girls' are much more comfortable to wear. I have wondered about this, but I do not know who else to ask. — Anonymous.

Dear Anonymous: Our country is spooked about anything that seems too effeminate to males. It's no real insult to call a girl "tomgirl," but it's worth a bloody nose to label a guy "girlish."

When a girl puts on boys' pants, she still gives them an unmistakable feminine curve. But a fellow in girls' capris rings "mutant male" to our culture. We're not defending the practice, only explaining the way things are in the good old U.S. of A. — Ele and Walt.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing pathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen, Michigan

THE TRIP: Peter Fonda stars in a pioneer attempt to simulate the acid trip. The story line is thin, but the photography and special effects keep it exciting, if not overly compelling. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

DAYTON'S DEVILS—EVE: One part adventure and one part sex turns two mediocre films into a double-feature with something for everyone... except the guy who really went to the drive-in to see a movie. — University Drive-in

Printed as a public service by The Ypsilanti Press

HANG 'EM HIGH: Clint Eastwood stars as a former lawman who is unjustly accused of murder and saved in the nick of time from a lynch mob's justice. By the time he evens the score several bloodpaths later, one wishes they had got him the first time. — State-Wayne

SMITH INCREDIBLE JOURNEY—THE BIG MOUTH: Seeing as the last is a typical Jerry Lewis assault, one will have to rely on the first two, which are as yet unknown quantities, for the strength of this triple-decker. — Wayne Drive-in

WILD IN THE STREETS: What happens when the younger generation finally out-numbers those on the other side of 30 and takes over the government. The resulting chaos is anticipated in the production of this film. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

THE ILLUSTRATED MAN: Rod Steiger and Claire Bloom take the title roles in this film version of Ray Bradbury's parable of the perpetual wanderer. Director Jack Smight has gone a bit haywire with floating symbols and disjointed time, but the quality of the acting and the original story keep the film at a first-rate interest level. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II

VALLEY OF THE DOLLS: Taken from the novel of the same name which probes the sexual and other hangups of the pill-popping generation, the movie is just as bad as the former bestseller and should do just as well with the not-too-discriminating audience. — Scio Drive-In

PLANET OF THE APES: Human space travelers find themselves in a world turned upside down where apes rule and humanoid beings are hunted as quarry. Plenty of room for either good satire or not-so-good slapstick; unfortunately, the filmmakers chose the low road. — Scio Drive-in

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and intelligently amusing to claim a 'G' rating. — State-Wayne

BUONA SERA, MRS. CAMPBELL: Gina Lollobrigida stars as an Italian temptress who has conned three American bedpartners into support of a child each thinks he has fathered. Careful direction and an excellent cast headed by Phil Silvers, Peter Lawford and Telly Savalas keep it light and funny and mature audiences will find it a pleasant relief from the usual sexploited fare. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

JOANNA: A very modern movie about a very contemporary girl who's pretty and adventurous and sleeps with a lot of different men because she likes them. There are no moral judgments here, not even any philosophical comments; just a story about people which is charming and happy simply because it doesn't pretend to be anything else, and bold and exciting because real people are. — Fifth Forum

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel. — Campus

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

IN THE HEAT OF THE NIGHT: Heavyweight champ of 1967, this was one of the first efforts to deal seriously with the issue of racial prejudice. It may seem simplistic to 1969 audiences; but fine performances by Rod Steiger as a bigoted cop and Sidney Poitier as a black detective called in to assist him lend power to the somewhat outdated script. — Willow Drive-in

WHERE WERE YOU WHEN THE LIGHTS WENT OUT? Doris Day and Robert Morse in a silly sex spoof set against the recent east-coast blackout. In retrospect, this film will probably be regarded as one of the more tragic results of that event. — Algier's Drive-in

ANGEL IN MY POCKET: Andy Griffith plays his guileless homespun self in this tale of a newly-ordained minister whose first post lands him in the middle of a town feud which threatens to bring down the church. It's a well-worn story; but it's funny and human and one of the few films left for family consumption. (G) — Wayside

GONE WITH THE WIND: Clark Gable and Vivian Leigh in a love story as timeless as the film itself. If it's possible that anyone hasn't yet seen it, by all means do. — Martha Washington

WHERE EAGLES DARE: Richard Burton and Clint Eastwood are the only big names in this high-powered war story, but the film is nevertheless headed for a spot not claimed since "The Great Escape." Basically the story of a group of experts assigned to rescue a general from the Nazis, it is so suspensefully complicated that one never knows what lies beyond the next twist. The genre is redeemed, and the real adventure-monger is vindicated. — Fox Village

HOW TO SAVE A MARRIAGE AND RUIN YOUR LIFE: Dean Martin and Stella Stevens star in this domestic comedy that employs every cliché about men, women and marriage since the three of them got together. Their marriage may be saved but their picture is definitely on the rocks. — Willow Drive-in Debbie Reynolds stars as a young sister turned pop recording artist in "The Singing Nun," the CBS Friday night movie at 9.

Art

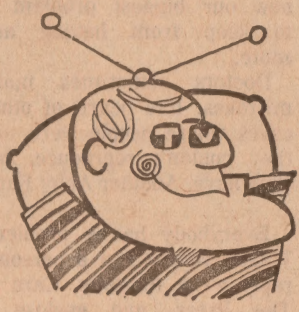

SURREALISM BEFORE/ AFTER: is the broad theme of a new show currently at the J.L. Hudson Gallery in Detroit. Centering on the post-war manifesto of unconscious creativity and unconfined expression, the show hosts oils, sculptures, watercolors and graphics by many of the greatest modern artists. Included are works by Joan Miro, Claes Oldenburg, Marc Chagall, Joseph Cornell, Salvador Dali, Enrico Donati, Jean Dubuffet, Marcel Duchamp, Max Ernst, George Grosz, Marvin Israel, Jasper Johns, Richard Lindner, Rene Magritte, Pablo Picasso, Francis Picabia, Paul Klee and Jean Arp. — J.L. Hudson Gallery, Hudson's downtown store; through May 3 with galleries open during normal store hours.

BLACK ARTISTS' EXHIBITION: The current show at the Detroit Artists' Market scans the full range of uniquely black art in the works of seven of Detroit's foremost painters. Participating artists include James Strickland, Lester Johnson, Robert Murray, James King, Jr., Charles McGee, Harold Neal and James Lee. A featured exhibit will include ceramics by Robert Stull. — Detroit Artists Market, 1452 Randolph, Detroit; through April 15 with galleries open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Our best to you...

CARTOONIST STU HAMPLE will add a visual dimension to tomorrow's Young People's Concert as he illustrates — always in time to the music — the orchestra's rendition of the Overture William Tell. Orchestral selections, also chosen to appeal to a youthful audience, will include Rimsky-Korsakov's Farewell of the Tsar from "Tsar Saltan," Tchaikovsky's Overture "Circus," selections from De Falla's "Love, the Magician," Strauss' Blue Danube Waltz and the Introduction to Act III from Wagner's "Lohengrin." In all, as pleasant a first experience with good music as could be imagined. Ford Auditorium, Detroit; performance tomorrow at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.; tickets $2.75 for both performances, $1.25 and $1.75 for morning only.

Documentary to replace '21st Century'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Time Century" will disappear after only three seasons. The CBS series of that name will be terminated at the end of this season, but not from the usual cause of TV death.

The show's ratings actually have held pretty well, considering that it arrives early Sunday evenings, just outside of prime time, and for the early part each season was occasionally washed by an overlong football game.

"The 21st Century" will be displaced the first of next season by a new series called "Challenge." Its executive producer, Burton Benjamin, thinks the new title will give his staff more scope.

The present series concentrates on the broader aspects—among this season's subjects have been the new medicine, the new biology, transportation changes, oceanography and such. Next year, it can give closeups of the people making the new world.

Presumably Benjamin's half-hour documentary next Thursday night—"Volcano: An Island is Born"—would have been one of the forthcoming instead of a special. It will show an island rising from the sea after an eruption from an undersea volcano.

Benjamin, a man of broad enthusiasms and a reporter's curiosity, is the senior executive producer of CBS News with a string of "CBS Reports" to his credit. He spent some chilly months during World War II on a Coast Guard weather ship near Iceland, which indirectly led to the volcano documentary.

It turned out that somebody had, and by good fortune it was a professional. The film was excellent. In addition, Burton learned, the island of volcanic residues was of special interest to scientists because over the past six years plant life—lichens and moss—have begun to appear. Birds and a few adventurous seals now are moving in.

"Some of them believe that, for the first time, they can see how life started on the earth itself," the producer said.

THE GOOD WOMAN OF SETZUAN: The most recent addition to the Hilberry repertory is this new English adaptation of Brecht's powerful allegory about a Chinese prostitute designated by the gods as the only good woman on earth. Directed by Leonard Leone with musical direction by Robert H. Cowden.—Hilberry Classic Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $3.

THE ALCHEMIST: Ben Johnson's scathing satire on the materialistic society is as applicable to 20th century America as it was to Elizabethan England. It is the great triumph of the play that it has survived, not as a period piece, but as sharp and relevant theater. Produced by the Stratford National Theater of Canada under the auspices of the PTP program.—Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $6.

DR. FAUSTUS: Christopher Marlowe's story of the man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for the pleasures of the earthly realm. Produced by the world-famous Royal Shakespeare under the direction of Clifford Williams.—Fisher Theater, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $3 to $6.50.

AMPHYTRION 38: Jean Giraudoux' "immortal" farce about the ribald god Jupiter's confrontation with the mating games of mortals. Under the direction of Douglas Seale.—Meadow Brook Theater, University of Oakland, Rochester; through April 13 with shows at 8:15 p.m., Sunday at 6:30 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $5.

MAJOR BARBARA: George Bernard Shaw's dramatic confrontation between a hard-nosed businessman and his idealistic daughter remains fully relevant to the problems of today. A social critic far ahead of his own time, Shaw's comments on poverty, crime and civil liberty ring with truth and vitality.—Hilberry Classic Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $3.

THE LORE OF THE LAKES is recreated in vivid and lively detail in the exciting artifacts and restorations at the Dossin Great Lakes Museum. The only true marine museum about the Lakes, Dossin touches on history from Commodore Perry's Lake Erie victory to the era of prohibition rum-runners and the record setting run of the Gold Cup powerboat Miss Pepsi. Popular exhibits include the ornate Gothic Room of the City of Detroit III, a freighter pilot house restored right down to the spittoon and a set of flags from the Ford fleet. And it isn't a "hands-off" showcase; visitors are invited to investigate model equipment and monitor conversations with passing ships. The past and present mingle here, in fitting tribute to a city born of the Lakes.—Dossin Great Lakes Museum, Belle Isle, Detroit; open Wednesday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5:45 p.m.

Visitors witness a salute to the past as one of the Great Lakes freighters whistles a greeting in passing the Dossin Great Lakes Museum.

Records

HOYT AXTON: "MY GRIFFIN IS GONE" (Columbia). This LP is the best ever for Mr. Hoyt. The freewheeling folkster turns to spiritually oriented songs in this collection of original cuts. An easy tone accented by competent arrangements comes across well on picks like "Revelations" and "Beelzebub's Laughter."

LEN NOVY: "NO EXPLANATIONS" (Atco). Carefully selected folk-rock material is well tailored to the boyishly emotional style of this debut LP. One might wish that Mr. Novy were capable of a greater range of expression, but when it works, it works well and "Think About It" and "Suntanned, Wind, Sand" are perfect vehicles for the performer's distinctive delivery.

JONAH JONES: "ALONG CAME JONES" (Motown). A nice sound of complex trumpet over strings lends verve — if not radical invention — to standards like "Michelle" and "I Say a Little Prayer" sells this disc. Brass might have added good contrast to the basically subdued combo, but Jones has a good thing going and he does it up right.

Hare blasts state courts

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare has complained that Michigan courts are failing to cooperate in efforts by his department to keep bad drivers off the highways.

"We want to stop undesirable motorists from having access to Michigan roads, but this cannot be done until the courts give us full cooperation," Hare said.

"There is a solution to this problem," he said. "It's simply a matter of timely, accurate reporting of court activities."

Hare said:

—There has been a significant decrease in the number of reports from the courts of drivers failing to answer traffic ticket notices. These notices are supposed to be sent to the department when a motorist fails to appear in court to answer a ticket citation.

—There also has been a decrease in the number of conviction abstracts received from the courts.

—There further has been a decline in the percentage of mandatory sentences required for certain types of driving violation convictions.

"Our office is aware of one district court which services approximately 80,000 people, that has submitted only 50 acceptable conviction abstracts this year," Hare said.

Hare said once his office receives information about a traffic violator it can suspend or revoke the license, issue a restricted license, send the motorist to a driver safety school or re-examine for physical defects. "Only after receiving conviction abstracts and failure to answer notices can we properly deal with negligent drivers," he said.

Cruise Service Planned

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit will be a port of call on the route of a luxury cruise service planned to start in 1970 by the Norwegian Caribbean Lines. The last great lakes cruises ceased in 1967.

Arthur Crane, a vice-president of the Norwegian line, said Monday announced that the 11,000-ton Sunward would probably be based in Port Colborne, Ont., for the service.

The Sunward is a 457-foot-long by 68-foot-wide vessel which can carry 558 persons. Launched in 1966, it has a swimming pool, dining room, night club, 100-seat movie theater, cocktail lounge, facilities for deck sports and a dance area, and carries three bands. The ship is now on a Miami-Nassau run.

India's land frontier of 9,425 miles is longer than the earth's diameter.

This ad might save you about 500 bucks.

It's simply a matter of arithmetic. Say you're about to buy a new water heater. You have two choices, Gas or electric, right? Wrong. Once you read the facts you'll find that Gas is the only choice. And here's why: Gas heats water faster for about 1/3 the cost of electricity. For the sake of argument, say you have two hot water heaters. A 40-gallon Gas heater. And an 80-gallon electric. Well, the truth is, that the 40-gallon Gas heater will produce more hot water than the 80-gallon electric for 1/3 the cost. That alone could save you as much as 50 dollars a year. And in ten years, that's roughly 500 dollars. Like we said: do you really have two choices? Bet you 500 bucks you don't.

U.S. may follow Canadian NATO cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canada's decision to cutback its NATO forces in Europe likely will trigger demands in Congress for drastic reductions of U.S. troops committed to the alliance, according to officials here.

A movement in the Senate last year to sharply cut the 225,000-man U.S. force committed to The North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe was stopped only when the Soviet Union and its allies invaded Czechoslovakia last August. The Soviet intervention resulted in fears that the East-West military situation in Europe might become unbalanced by a cutback of U.S. forces. These apprehensions have largely subsided and presumably would be revived only by some fresh Soviet thrust. The Canadian move focuses fresh attention on the troop level issue and makes renewed congressional pressure for U.S. reduction almost inevitable, some well-informed officials feel. The action by Canada, which has only about 10,000 troops in Europe is seen here as a reflection of a feeling fairly widespread through the alliance that NATO has outlived its original purpose. The alliance was formed 20 years ago today as a defense against any threat to Western Europe by the Soviet Union. The feeling now is that the Soviet threat has largely diminished and the alliance is in need of a fundamental review and revision.

Senate critics consider that too many U.S. troops are deployed in Europe. One of the chief advocates of reduction last year was Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

40 students arrested

KALAMAZOO (AP) — Forty demonstrators were arrested by about 200 police at Western Michigan University today when around 4,000 students gathered in a protest for more student rights.

About six policemen suffered minor injuries when rocks and firecrackers were thrown.

Dr. James Miller, president of Western Michigan, alerted police to the latest in a series of student protests for more control over nonacademic matters.

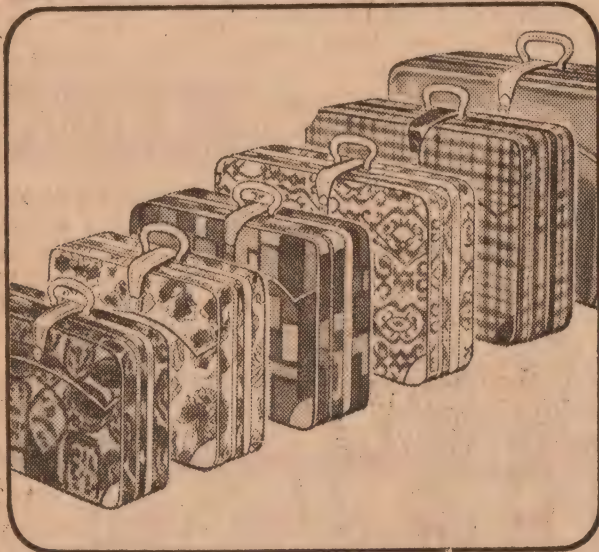

Police said the students were arrested after they refused to disperse and were charged with either unlawful assembly or assault with intent to do great bodily harm. Both are felonies.

Wild, woolly action Continues in playoffs

By the Associated Press
Fight Night, alias the National Hockey League playoffs, will resume on four new fronts Saturday and the games are expected to last at least 60 minutes if enough players can keep from getting thrown out.

The first eight games, played Wednesday and Thursday nights, were marked by 11 major penalties, seven misconducts and four game misconducts. The uproar started between the Bruins and Maple Leafs in Boston Wednesday night and spread Thursday to the Blues and Flyers in St. Louis and the Seals and Kings in Oakland.

The hockey segments of Thursday night's games ended with Boston shelling Toronto 7-0, Montreal whipping New York 5-2, St. Louis routing Philadelphia 5-0 and Oakland taking Los Angeles 4-2.

The first three series stand 2-0 while the Seals and Kings are 1-1. Weekend games are scheduled in Toronto, New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles.

Thursday night's donnybrook erupted in St. Louis, where the Blues and Flyers drew one major, four misconducts and two game misconducts. The Oakland-Los Angeles clash produced a misconduct and game misconduct while the Bruins and Leafs, who were socked with 132 penalty minutes Wednesday night, limited themselves to one scrap, which produced two majors.

Before the game, veteran forward Forbes Kennedy of Toronto was suspended indefinitely for knocking down a linesman during an opening night brawl with Boston. NHL President Clarence Campbell said he would make a final decision today.

The only teams that stuck strictly to hockey were Montreal and New York. The Canadiens erupted for three goals in 8½ minutes of the second period to overcome a 2-1 Ranger lead. It was the ninth consecutive playoff victory for the Canadiens over New York dating back to 1957. Bobby Rousseau, Yvan Cournoyer and Jean Beliveau tallied during Montreal's second-period rally, while rookie Christian Bordeleau scored in the first period and Ralph Backstrom got an open net goal with 28 seconds left. Rod Seiling and Vic Hadfield were New York's marksmen.

Boston socked it to Toronto again in the wake of an opening 10-0 massacre. Johnny Bucyk triggered the outburst with two first-period goals as the Bruins relaxed their muscles and stuck to fitness hockey for the most part. Ted Green, John McKenzie, Ken Hodge, Ron Murphy and Phil Esposito got the other goals.

"They deserve the credit more than I do," said goalie Gerry Cheevers of his teammates. "Our defense played super. The wings came back fast every time. Everybody was helping out."

That included All-Star defenseman Bobby Orr, who suffered a concussion Wednesday night. The only brawl was a second-period slugfest between Boston's Don Awrey and Toronto's Larry Mickey.

Gary Sabourin scored one goal and assisted on two others and goalie Jacques Plante recorded his 11th career playoff shutout in a riotous St. Louis triumph over Philadelphia. Bill McCreary, Both benches cleared in the second period during a stick-waving incident that saw Philly's Ed Van Impe ejected while Noel Picard and McCreary of the Blues got misconducts.

Oakland's Doug Jarrett, in his first turn on the ice, snapped a 2-2 tie at 2:40 of the third period as the Seals evened things up with Los Angeles. Ted Hampson got the Seals' first two goals and Bob Dillabough scored into an empty net with 13 seconds left.

Oakland's Doug Roberts got the thumb for protesting too much on a goal by LA's Howie Menard. Ted Irvine also scored for the Kings.

Denny's shoulder acting up

McLain returns to Detroit after shellacking

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Denny McLain, named opening game pitcher for the Tigers by Manager Mayo Smith, left for Detroit Thursday complaining of a tightness in his shoulder.

McLain checked into Ford Hospital for examination by team physician Dr. Clarence Lovingood and Dr. Leslie Mitchell, a specialist.

Manager Smith said: "I won't know if he can pitch opening day until Monday, when we will work out at Tiger Stadium."

The opener will be a

Tuesday day game with Cleveland.

McLain pitched 6 2-3 innings, allowing 14 hits and 8 runs, in a Thursday exhibition game against Cincinnati. The Tigers won that game 9-8, following Willie Horton's ninth inning leadoff homer.

Last year, McLain had to have injections for his shoulder, which caused him some concern during the World Series. But doctors said it is not a serious problem at this time.

"When Denny tries to put a little extra on the ball, it catches on him," said

Manager Mayo Smith in Florida Thursday.

Smith plans to call on World Series hero Mickey Lolich to pitch on opening day if McLain is ailing.

Veteran Dick Radatz is included in the Tiger squad, newly trimmed down to the 25 player limit. Radatz made a strong showing in nine exhibition games this spring, posting a 2.00 earned-run average.

But 41-year-old Elroy Face and 33-year-old John Wyatt were trimmed from the pitching roster.

Face, who had been in the major leagues since 1953, said he would attempt to land a berth on another club.

"I'm starting immediately calling other major league teams. I definitely think I can help somebody."

Wyatt, who came to the Tigers last year from the Yankees, said he was going home.

Waivers were asked on both players.

"I'm not going to call anyone," Wyatt remarked.

Four rookies will be on the squad when the season opens for the Tigers Tuesday. They include left-handed pitchers Mike Kilkenny and Fred Sherman and outfielder Ron Woods. Dave Campbell, who played in nine games last year for the Tigers, is also with the team.

Sent to the Triple-A farm club at cutting-down time were pitchers Les Cain and Bob Reed, catcher Joe Cernich and outfielder Wayne Redmond. Catcher Hector Valle and pitcher Tom Timmerman, two more players who were in camp but not on contract, will also be sent to the Mud Hens.

Old Satch Cranks up, Wins again

By the Associated Press

Age appears to have finally caught up with former star relievers Roy Face, Bill Henry and John Wyatt, but it can't catch the ageless wonder of them all—Satchel Paige.

Old Satch, who admits to being more than 50 years old and is estimated at 62, showed he can still do a little pitching like a 30-year-old when he ambled his long frame back to the mound Thursday and won another game.

His one inning of shutout ball in the Atlanta Braves' 1-0 victory over their Richmond Class AAA farm club might well have served as an inspiration for "youngsters" Face, 41, Wyatt, 33, and Henry, 41, who found themselves without jobs today.

In other games, Detroit outslugged Cincinnati 9-3, Montreal clobbered Pittsburgh 9-2, Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 4-0, the New York Mets stopped St. Louis 5-0, Cleveland outlasted San Francisco 12-7, the Chicago White Sox nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1.

Also Philadelphia beat Kansas City 7-3, Washington whipped Minnesota 7-2, San Diego whopped Oakland 10-4, Houston edged Boston 3-2 and Los Angeles defeated California 4-2.

Face, who starred in the bullpen for many years with Pittsburgh, and Wyatt, once the Kansas City relief ace, were released by the Detroit Tigers, and Henry, one-time ace reliever for Cincinnati and San Francisco, quit Seattle in disgust after a bad outing.

Bo Belinsky, former fun-loving no-hit pitcher dropped earlier by St. Louis, found himself on the way back to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League after no one claimed him on waivers.

Two other past bullpen master, Dick Radatz and Dick Hall, received new life when they caught on with Detroit and Baltimore, respectively.

The controversial Donn Clendenon trade was completed when Montreal sent pitchers John Bingham and Skip Guinn and some money to Houston.

But Paige, the new hero of the 60s, stole the show when he cranked up his arm for a brief comeback, and after the first hit reached third base on a double and an error, he retired the side on an infield out and two strikeouts.

The Braves got him the victory in the last of the fifth when Bob Tiltman walked and came around on two wild pitches and an infield out.

Paige, listed on the Atlanta roster as an assistant trainer, plans to pitch a little more in the remaining exhibition games before retiring again.

Dave McNally, Jim Palmer and Mike Adamson combined on a one-hitter and Paul Blair and Curt Motton homered in Baltimore's victory. Tom Seaver, readying for Tuesday's opening day assignment, pitched two-hit ball for eight innings for the Mets.

Cleveland hammered 22 hits, including 14 against Juan Marichal, and Bill Melton scored both runs on a double and a homer while rookie Gerry Nyman pitched seven innings of one-hit ball in the White Sox triumph.

Top rookies Larry Hise and Don Money each had two hits for Philadelphia and Frank Howard's homer topped a seven-run Washington attack against Dean Chance as Joe Coleman, Barry Moore and Dennis Higgins stopped the Twins on three hits.

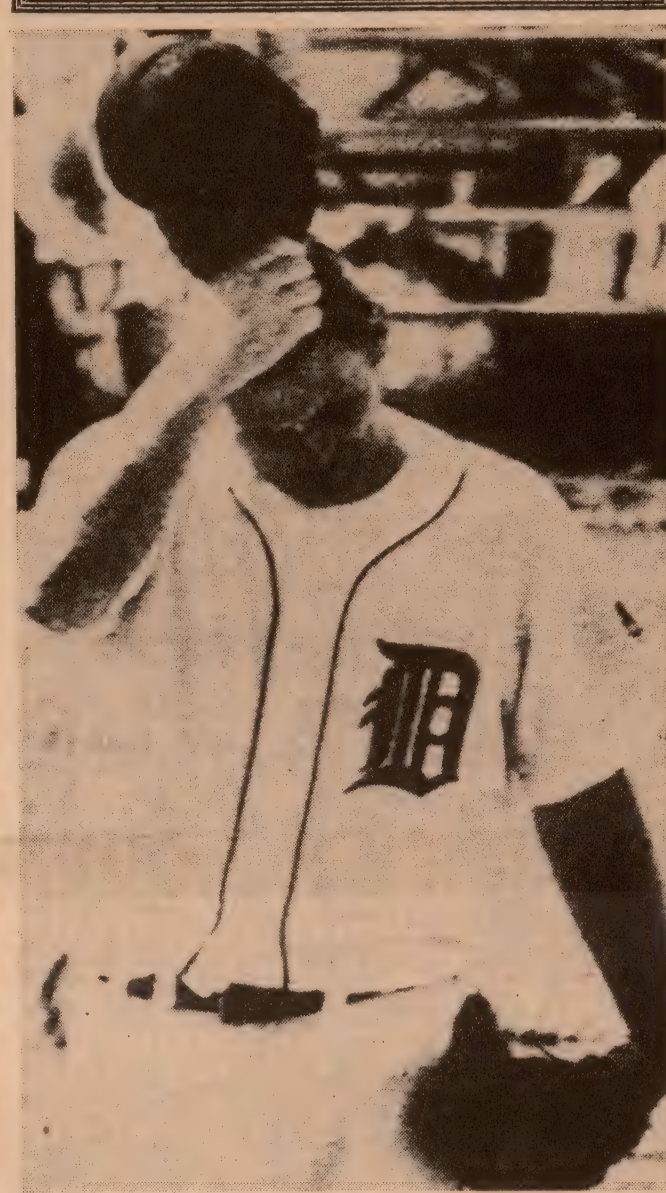

Littler, two others Tie for tourney lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The pro golf tour's "quiet man," leading money winner Gene Littler, had a 50-year-old amateur suffering from bursitis and an airport services executive as his unlikely co-leaders heading into today's second round of the $160,000 Greensboro Open golf tournament.

Littler, who has won over $54,000 this year, opened with a five-under-par 66 over the 7,034-yard Sedgefield Country Club course Thursday.

Dale Horey, 50-year-old amateur from nearby High Point, and Gordon Jones, journeyman pro for much of the last 12 years, join him at the top.

Form like mid-season:

EMU starts fast

INSTITUTE, W. Va. — In a delightfully surprising display of mid-season form here yesterday afternoon, the Eastern Michigan University baseball team shellacked West Virginia State, 10-0, in the Hurons' opener.

Four EMU pitchers combined to hurl a four hitter, striking out nine batters and walking just one. Senior righthander Bill Giffin was sharpest of the quartet, setting down nine in a row through the middle innings. He struck out four.

The pitching wasn't the only phase of the contest in which the Hurons looked sharp.

Their fielding was flawless, they stole four bases and they drilled West Virginia State pitching for 12 hits, including five for extra bases.

On one occasion, a successfully executed double steal earned the Hurons a run. On another occasion, an attempted double steal caused the West Virginia pitcher to balk, allowing a run to score.

Junior pitcher Tom Allen cracked the game's only home run, a towering fly deep over center field in the eighth inning. There was one aboard.

Third baseman Jeff Peck unloaded a pair of triples. The first, coming in the third inning, sent Reggie Barringer scurrying home with EMU's second run of the day. He connected again in the seventh.

The team, 24 strong, spent the night in the West Virginia State infirmary — although nobody was sick — before departing at 4 a.m. for Blacksburg, Va. They were to arrive in Blacksburg at 9 a.m. and play Brown University at 10 a.m.

Steve Kruzel, who in baseball is better known as the centerfielder for St. John's, yesterday tried something a little different. The Crusaders, co-captain attempted to pitch.

Lincoln is all the sadder for the experiment, for Kruzel stopped the Railsplitters on two hits — none after the first inning — and St. John's defeated Lincoln, 5-2, on the losers' diamond.

Kruzel, a righthander, struck out 10, walked three and hit one in going the distance.

He outduelled junior Butch Meggitt, who also pitched creditably. Meggitt twirled a five-hitter and fanned 13 during this season opener for both schools. Meggitt also collected one of Lincoln's hits, a run-producing triple in the first inning.

Jim Dupuis collected a pair of hits, including a double, for St. John's. He stole three bases.

An outstanding defensive play was turned in by Dave Richardson, the Crusaders' shortstop. During the seventh inning, he went deep into the hole behind second, did a flip as he came up with the baseball and still threw out the runner.

WESTLAND — John Glenn's netters didn't take long to get on the winning side of the ledger after a Wednesday loss to Ypsilanti High. The Rockets yesterday scored a lopsided, 6-1 victory over Romulus here. Outside of the first singles, the match was all Westland and saw Clark Fullerton and Dave Johnston stretch their season records to 2-0. Glenn is now 1-1, with its next action a quadrangular it will host Saturday. Others in the match are Ypsilanti High, Roosevelt and Northville.

Rocket thinclads Drop opener, 70-48

WESTLAND — Dearborn Heights Robichaud got outstanding performances from a pair of its thinclads yesterday and went on to defeat John Glenn, 70-48, on the losers' track.

Yancy Hughes won the long jump with an outstanding effort of 22 feet, the 100-yard dash in 10.2 and the 220-yard dash in 23.3 to boost Robichaud on the road to victory. Jim Alverson was also tough, winning both hurdles events.

Westland Glenn's winners were Gary Schleicher (shot), Greg Hubbard (high jump), Dick Dittmar (880) and Al Borovsky (pole vault).

The meet was the opener for both schools.

Grand River watershed Plans reviewed by council

LANSING (AP) — The Grand River Valley watershed probably never will be able to meet the demands of area residents for water recreation.

This is just one of the worries of the Grand River

Watershed Council—a far-seeing group trying to plan for use of the area through the year 2020, more than 50 years from now.

"We need an enormous amount of acreage to supply the demand in the area for water recreation, especially by the year 2020," said Carl Nelson of the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

"If we could only shoot all the water skiers," he added in jest, we would be in fine shape. But, of course, we can't."

The council supplied a background briefing for legislators and others Tuesday on preliminary planning for the watershed.

The council plans a series of meetings with the public and local officials in the 12-county area to generate support for long range plans for water use in the area.

The information meetings will last through the summer. They will be followed by public hearings on the proposed planning in November at Lansing, Grand Rapids and Jackson.

Major points brought out at the background briefing included:

—There still is a flooding danger in the Grand River area.

—Pollution is a problem, especially in upstream areas near Jackson, Lansing and East Lansing.

—The river and connecting streams are not so badly polluted they can't support Coho salmon, trout and other sports fish.

Col. James White Jr., of the Detroit district U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said the annual average flood damage amounts to $300,000 a year at both Lansing-East Lansing and Grand Rapids and $100,000 a year at Portland.

There is less flood damage each year at a number of other locations along the Grand River Valley, he reported.

White noted that flood waters never have topped the flood wall at Grand Rapids, although they came within two feet of doing so in 1947 and 1948.

"We could still have a bad flood," White said.

Long range plans for the river valley call for the construction of up to 17 reservoirs and dams to aid in flood control. These also could be used for water recreation.

Ray Ownbey, of the federal water pollution control administration, named Jackson, Lansing and East Lansing as the major areas where water quality is poor due to pollution.

"Every little community contributes to the pollution, however," he added. "Pesticides washing into the river and then into Lake Michigan also are causing concern."

Ken Christensen, of the State Natural Resources Department fish division, said the Grand River and its tributaries still are able to support some good sports fishing.

"They've been catching rainbow trout in the river and a four and one-half pound brown trout was taken recently near Grand Rapids," he noted.

The department planted 100,000 Coho salmon near Grand Rapids and Portland to stock the river this spring. When the salmon mature, Christensen said, they could migrate upstream as far as Grand Ledge.

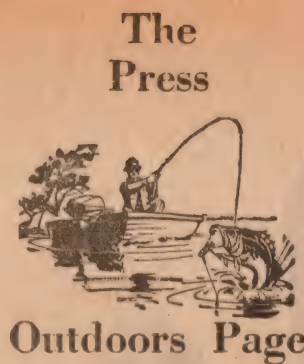

The commission preliminary report originally called for $99 million to be spent over the first 15 years for watershed improvement.

White said the figure for the first 5 years now probably should be around 175 million.

The valley preserves would consist of flood plain areas, mainly set aside for recreational use.

Plans call for one area upstream from the Portland Municipal Dam along the East Ionia County line and including one mile of the Looking Glass River Valley, a second in the flood plain area east of Ionia and a third near Muir, upstream along the Maple River.

White said the first federal funds can't be expected for three years. The master plan has to be approved by Congress before the various federal agencies involved can release funds.

Senator Calls for DDT ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., is calling for a nationwide ban on use of the pesticide DDT.

He said in a statement this week would introduce legislation to prohibit the interstate sale or shipment of DDT.

"The accumulation of DDT in our environment and in fish and wildlife is reaching catastrophic proportions," he said.

"The path of this persistent pesticide's deadly contamination has left its mark from the reindeer of Alaska to the penguin of the Antarctic."

"In a single generation, DDT has polluted our environment on a worldwide basis, infiltrating the atmosphere, the water and the tissues of most of the world's creatures, pushing some, like the peregrine falcon and the bald eagle, to the brink of extinction."

Nelson said, "the seizure of 21,000 pounds of contaminated Lake Michigan Coho salmon by the Food and Drug Administration could be the straw that breaks DDT's back. However, those fish were proven not to be a hazard."

"The presence of dangerous concentrations of DDT in these Lake Michigan fish indicates that the pesticide pollution of the lake has reached a critical level and immediate action is necessary."

Releases Park funds

LANSING (AP) — The State Administrative Board has released funds previously appropriated for campground development by the State Department of Natural Resources at two state parks.

Approved were use of $208,870 for Hoffmaster State Park, Muskegon County, and $196,300 for Warren Dunes State Park.

Contracts approved included:

Athletic field for Michigan School for the Deaf, Flint, Spartan Asphalt Paving Co., Flint, $58,534; conversion of facilities at Ypsilanti State Hospital for children's services, Perry Construction Co., Ann Arbor, $138,400; transformers, underground services and switchgear for buildings at Traverse City State Hospital, Davis Electric, Inc., Traverse City, $24,870; landscape planting and related work at Whitmore Lake Boys Training School, William Reinhold Landscape Contractor, Flat Rock, $45,656.

Cass River near Caro Restocked with 200 pike

LANSING — Tuscola County's Cass River, was restocked near Caro with 200 adult northern pike purchased by the Michigan Sugar Company to help compensate for last October's fish kill in the stream which was caused by a waste discharge from the firm's local plant.

The firm is also purchasing 200 adult largemouth bass which will be released later this spring in a further move to rehabilitate the Cass River.

In buying the 400 pike and bass at a cost of about $1,400, the sugar company is meeting a request of the Department of Natural Resources to act as "good neighbors" by providing the stream with brood stock for natural reproduction.

Plantings of the pike and bass have been timed ahead of the spawning season for these fish to promote immediate natural reproduction in the Cass River this spring. Fisheries men for the Department of Natural Resources inspected the pike prior to planting and closely supervised this Thursday's release as they will the one scheduled later with largemouth bass.

Under their direction, the first planting was carried out by workers of a commercial fish breeder from whom the fish were purchased.

Besides acting in good faith with the purchase of fish planting stock, the Michigan Sugar Company is complying with directives of the Water Resources Commission by improving its waste discharge controls in a full-fledged effort to prevent involvement in another fish kill.

In a letter sent this week, the Department of Natural Resources expressed its appreciation to the firm for the total "spirit of cooperation" it has shown.

Resume salmon planting After hazard ruled out

LANSING (AP) — The Department of Natural Resources said yesterday it plans to resume spring salmon plantings in Lake Michigan streams, acting upon the assumption that Coho and Chinook salmon taken from the lake are safe to eat.

The department issued a temporary stop order on the new releases of salmon last week after 22,555 pounds of frozen Coho shipped into Michigan from Wisconsin and Minnesota for commercial sale were impounded by the Food and Drug Administration.

The federal agency said samples of the fish contained high levels of two insecticides, DDT and dieldrin.

Subsequent conferences, the state department said, indicate there is no health hazard involved in eating salmon taken from Lake Michigan's open waters.

Department director Ralph MacMullan said fish caught in Lake Michigan haven't shown anywhere near the levels of DDT and dieldrin that appeared in fish caught in stream weirs.

"This being the case, we have every reason to go ahead with our salmon releases for Lake Michigan streams this spring," MacMullan said.

One of the reasons for continuing the plantings, MacMullan said, is to help restore the balance between prey and predator fish in Lake Michigan.

The salmon are seen as a key factor in control of alewife.

"We have a tremendous responsibility to try our best to rehabilitate Lake Michigan's fishery and our salmon program figures prominently in those efforts," MacMullan said.

MacMullan said the State of Michigan, Michigan State University, federal agencies and neighboring states are keeping a close check on the pesticide levels found in salmon.

Livingston To move To Marquette

LANSING — Albert L. "Bud" Livingston, the Department of Natural Resources' regional fire supervisor for the southern Lower Peninsula at Lansing since 1965, will assume a similar post at Marquette, effective April 14.

His transfer as new regional fire supervisor for the Upper Peninsula was announced this week by Warren W. Shapton, Field Deputy Director for the DNR.

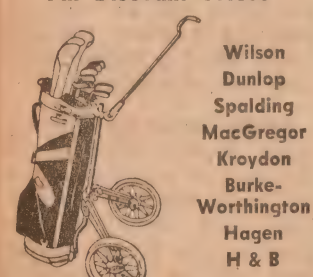

Livingston, a 22-year field veteran of the Department, succeeded Robert A. Gouin, who moved from Marquette to Roscommon to become regional fire supervisor for the northern Lower Peninsula.

The DNR expects to name Livingston's replacement for the Lansing post this week.

Livingston's long career in natural resources dates back to 1947 when he joined the Department as a conservation officer at Shingleton. He later served as a conservation officer in the Watersmeet and Calumet areas of the Upper Peninsula before being named assistant district supervisor of the DNR's former field administration activities in the Gladwin area in 1956.

Special bird sightings Should be reported

LANSING — Michigan residents spotting wing-marked sandhill cranes are urged to report their sightings to the Department of Natural Resources.

Some 50 of the long-legged birds were marked with light green wing tags by the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. That commission has now asked Michigan's DNR to cooperate in getting reports on when and where these birds are seen so it can learn more about their migration patterns and summer distribution.

The first flight of the wing-tagged cranes headed north from upper Florida February 28, and some of the birds may have arrived in this state. They are most likely to be seen in parts of Clinton, Jackson, and Calhoun counties in Southern Michigan and in the eastern half of the Upper Peninsula, notably the Sault Ste. Marie and Seney areas.

Holy Week:

Man eyes something better

By The Associated Press
MAN is on the road, going somewhere. Loaded with the past, piling on the present, he's always moving, pushing on. To where? To What? He's not sure. But he's seeking something better.

He hasn't got it made, not yet. He's restless, never quite content. Oh, there are good moments, the partial achievements, the temporary truces and delights.

The objective, the full consummation, still lies ahead. Just what it is remains unclear. It's vague, elusive, nebulous. But the search for it goes on. Man hasn't arrived. He's still hunting home. Movement is his mode and, as the pop song puts it, "the times, they are a-changing." pilgrimage—what some philosophers call the continuing "creative process," says an Episcopal theologian, the Rev. Norman Pittenger. "It's not a finished and settled system."

Its finishing still beckons ahead, summoning people toward it. And they move, striving, blundering, discovering, fighting, negotiating, slipping backward, pressing on again.

And the goal? A full future, a total tomorrow, or as Pierre

Last in series

Teilhard de Chardin calls it, the "Omega-point."

It's what Scripture terms "a new heaven and a new earth"—"eternal life"—the "kingdom of God." Whatever name it's given, it's the call to completion, the pull to wholeness, the drumbeat of an uncrimped destination.

But the way is rough, the going wobbly and wavering.

Man "is bound to a future not because he has a road map but because he has a promise," says a Lutheran Theologian, the Rev. Dr. Martin Marty. "The Christian gathering moves in the light of images bounced off a screen at the end of history."

It's a distant glimmer, on a far horizon. Often, in the shadows of man's failures, phoniness, anxiety and dying, it's hard to see. It's not the thorough and final illumination. Yet it's a signal, a pointer, a direction.

And its chief bearer is considered the risen Christ—"the light of the world."

"It is the Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom," He said. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whosoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life."

The resurrection is seen as the foretelling of that purpose. It is to Christians the prime promise, the developing, purifying seed down in earthly life, the beginning of the end design.

Historically, it lies in the past, but functionally, it is regarded as working in everypresent, yet always out in front in advance, leading toward a new and perfected order, a "new creation."

The resurrection's "reality" is the most powerful religious symbol of what is truly possible as the future, the future which de factor already has commenced in Jesus as the Christ," writes a Catholic theologian, the Rev. Edward Schillebeeckx.

In that perspective, much current theology conceives of God, not just as past creator and present sovereign, but as the "power of the future," as "He Who is ahead of us," the "Dieu-en-avant," the "One Who is to come."

He is seen as the beacon of hope, always up forward, tugging an onward.

"Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut," read the words of the exalted Christ in the Book of Revelation.

It's a big offer, a portal to unreamed possibilities, but man's blotchy record and his innate fallibility, summed up in his certain death, leaves him somewhat ill-equipped, to attain that grand gateway into eternity.

In fact, he can, as well he knows and as Judeo-Christianity recognizes. It's impossible for him to make it on his own. He's trapped in his mortality, in his vanity, misjudgments, avarice, rivalry, sickness and wariness of love.

In Scriptural terms, he's crippled by "sin," by his self-centered alienation from the wholeness of life itself, from his Maker and his fellow men.

The distrust and conflict, both individual and social, go on, the arrogant despotisms, the greed, the imbalances, the rampages and wreckage, the bursting shells, the insular suspicions and, as James Baldwin says, maybe "the fire next time."

"We know that the whole creation has been groaning in travail together until now," writes St. Paul, "and not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the first fruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly as we wait for adoption as sons."

It's a bitter bind, he notes, yet "subjected in hope."

Man can work at overcoming it, and sometimes make headway, in part, and that's his responsibility, but the zig-zag course of history refutes any assumption that man can fully perfect existence by his own actions.

It depends on Another, in the Biblical view, on the unswervingly loving character of God, on intervening grace.

Man's Hope

God alone "is man's future and his hope," said the late great Swiss theologian Karl Barth. "If he did not have God before him in his death and thus in his end, he would have nothing ahead of him. But God is the future of his present."

And the resurrection, that peculiar, undefinable, luminous enigma, both in history and out of it, flashed the infinite potentialities into the heart of humankind.

"And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself," He said. The missionary-apostle Paul called it the "revelation of the mystery which was kept secret since the world began, but now is made manifest." It's a boundless vision:

Because of it, Christianity has sometimes been portrayed as a flight from reality, what Karl Marx termed an illusory "opiate of the people" that divorces them from the struggle to rectify world conditions. Actually, it's just the opposite.

Its chief symbol is a rack of torture, the cross, and it points not only to the eventual conquest of the world's infirmities, but also to the painful ordeal required for that accomplishment. The mandate is for confidence, based on sacrificial effort.

"You will drink my cup," Jesus told his men. "If any man would come after Me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me."

He said those who labor to bring peace and righteousness in the world, to heal the woes of the hungry, the poor, the abused, sick and imprisoned will face opposition and travail, but in the end, this eternal decree:

"Come, O blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundations of the world ... Truly, I say to you, as you did it for one of the least of these: My brethren you did it for Me."

The resurrection, and the cross through which it came, offer no easy living, no promised prosperity, no escape from misfortunes and the scars of battle, nor any other built-in safeguards against trouble.

AAUW to sponsor Series of lectures

"Design In Our Lives — Our Time" is the title of a series of lectures sponsored by the Ann Arbor Branch of the American Association of University Women and the University of Michigan Extension Service.

The lectures will be presented on April 23 and 30, and May 7, 14, 21 and 28 in the Rackham Building at U-M.

Donald B. Kersten, will speak on the dynamics of visual form and the importance of environmental design on April 23 and 30. Kersten currently conducts research in more effective outdoor publicity art, through a module and symbol system. He is a member of the Michigan Watercolor Society, the Ann Arbor Association and the Citizen's for Area Planning.

Emme Leah Bippus, lecturer on May 7 and 14, is going to speak on the functional needs in a home, and the aesthetics which make the interior an attractive environment and a creative expression.

Honored by the National Gallery of Art in 1966 for outstanding contributions to art education, she directs the museum's Docent Lecture Program, the monthly series "Morning with the Masters," gallery programs for elementary school children, and a special series on "What to See in Europe." She currently teaches interior design at the University of Toledo.

On May 21 and 28, Charles W. Cares Jr., will discuss the evaluation of a site's potential for development as a home and the requirements and opportunities to develop outdoor spaces. Cares is a U-M professor of landscape architecture. Prior to coming to U-M, he taught at Cornell University and was a private landscape architecture consultant.

Senate speeds passage Of water pollution measure

LANSING (AP) — Acting with unexpected speed, the Senate Thursday passed and sent to the House a bill setting up procedures for distribution of $285 million in water pollution control bond money.

The bill passed 22-6 over objections of some members who accused backers of "whip cracking" and "shoving through" legislation.

The $285 million, for construction of sewage treatment works, represents a major portion of the $335 million in water pollution control bonds approved by voters in the November election. A companion measure to permit sale of $50 million bonds for sewer construction in local communities still is pending in the Senate.

The bill passed Thursday authorizes the State Water Resources Commission to set priorities on a 30-point scale for treatment project applications. The scale would be set on a financial and pollution basis.

The legislature then would appropriate funds based on community priorities.

This would eliminate any possibility of pork barreling by any administrative body or the Legislature," said Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

"It would protect both the integrity of the Water Resources Commission" and the position of the Legislature, he said. The bill includes a "system of checks and balances so important in this type of legislation," Zollar added.

The bill was reported onto the Senate floor Thursday and rules were suspended for immediate consideration.

Zollar pointed to the Legislature's 10-day Easter recess and urged immediate passage. Senate approval sent the bill to the House where it will lie over the recess and be eligible for consideration when members returned to Lansing.

Senate failure to act immediately could have delayed passage and jeopardized some local projects, he said. If the pollution bond measure was not enacted before the end of the current fiscal year, Zollar explained, some 31 local units could lose already-approved federal funds.

Sen. Harold Hungerford, R-Lansing, objected to the speedy trial of the bill in the upper chamber. "It's about time we acted as a Senate, with some degree of deliberation," added Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford.

Gov. William Milliken had urged swift passage of the bond measure in order to take full advantage of the spring construction season.

Senate action on the bill came within hours of an attorney general's ruling that the bond measures could be passed before any general appropriations bills.

Milliken asked for the opinion, citing a section of the Michigan Constitution requiring action on general budget bills before passage of items not included in the budget.

Kelley said, however, that since the pollution bond measures did not require appropriations, the constitutional question did not exist.

A 144-page bill to recodify the state's banking laws—the first major revision since 1937—came up for discussion Thursday, but members postponed preliminary approval because of its complexity and a series of amendments offered.

Job Corps funds May be slashed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House reportedly has ordered much deeper cuts than expected in funds for the job Corps' a key poverty program with strong allies in Congress.

The $100-million slash, planned for the fiscal year starting July 1, would require closing 60 per cent of the conservation centers and 40 per cent of the urban centers in the youth training program.

The administration's plans have been disclosed privately to key members of Congress, where members with Job Corps centers in their districts are rallying to the support of the threatened program and, in at least one case, already have forced a change in the administration's orders.

Labeling Revamp Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has proposed new rules for labeling foods and drugs containing cyclamate, the most widely used type of sugar substitute.

The Food and Drug Administration estimated Thursday that the regulations would be made effective in an official order within two months. Manufacturers will have 30 days before then to file comments and objections.

FDA Commissioner Herbert L. Ley Jr. said the labeling changes would require listing the cyclamate content and a statement that adults should not consume more than 3,500 milligrams a day or children more than 1,200 milligrams.

The FDA said few people now exceed the proposed limit. Several manufacturers that use the sweetener, including Canada Dry, Royal Crown Cola Co. and the Pillsbury Co., endorsed the regulation.

State witness asks Sirhan be spared

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A witness called by the state to help convict Sirhan Bishara Sirhan as the murderer of Robert F. Kennedy says the 25-year-old Jordanian should be spared the maximum penalty of death in the gas chamber.

In a dramatic end to a day of cross-examination and heated argument, the state's chief psychiatrist, Dr. Seymour Pollack, blurted out his staunch opposition to capital punishment Thursday.

The prosecution, which counted heavily on Pollack's testimony to gain a first-degree murder conviction, "accepted me, knowing full well how strongly opposed I am," the psychiatrist said.

Under questioning by Grant B. Cooper, the chief defense attorney, Pollack clung to his conviction that Sirhan is not a mental cripple who can be excused from responsibility for the assassination last June 5.

But he conceded he had submitted a report that Sirhan suffered a substantial mental illness and that this "should be considered a substantial mitigating factor in the matter of penalty."

"You think," asked Cooper, "it is mitigating to the extent of reducing it from first-degree murder to second degree?"

"No," Pollack said.

"Is it sufficient to mitigate it from death to life?"

"Yes."

Sirhan smiled approvingly every time the doctor said he had little impairment in his mental processes. When Pollack finished for the day, Sirhan grinned hugely.

"He very much doesn't want to be seen as a crazy fellow," Pollack testified at one point.

"He'd rather be seen as an Arab supporter and go to the gas chamber than be perceived as a crazy man."

Backyard battleground

By JAMES VAN FLEET
Retired Army Officer,
Springfield, Missouri

"You've got to love your neighbor," the teacher of my adult Sunday school class said. "It's one of the two great commandments."

"How?" I asked her. "How do I go about loving my neighbor, especially one I don't like?"

"Well, you just... uh... have to love him," she stammered. "That's all; you just have to. It's up to you to figure out how."

I'd heard comments like that all my life. But when the time came to love my neighbor I couldn't always do it. Why? Because after all these years I simply didn't know how.

My family and I had moved into a pleasant residential community after I retired from the Army in 1966. After more than 20 years of rolling around the country with a professional Army officer, my wife and children were looking forward with joyful anticipation to a permanent home they could call their own. And so was I.

One neighborhood couple was childless and both husband and wife worked. The second night after we'd moved in, I went next door to their house and introduced myself. I explained that my three children had a little dance band and I wanted to make sure my neighbors weren't disturbed by the children's practice sessions.

"Don't worry about it," the couple said. When I went back home, I assured my family everything was fine, but I told my children they should never practice after 10 p.m.

Unfortunately, things didn't work out as we'd expected. Their equipment was set up in our garage, but no sooner would they start to practice than the phone would ring. "My wife has a headache," our neighbor would say. "Be quiet!"

These calls came no matter what the time of day. If the kids practiced at 6 in the evening, the phone would ring. Saturday morning or Saturday afternoon, the phone would ring. Sunday afternoon, the same thing. No one else ever called to complain — only those neighbors.

Other calls came from them too. "Turn off your window air-conditioner; it's keeping us awake!" "Turn off your backyard lights and stop playing croquet." "Stop carrying wood to your back porch; you're making too much noise."

Finally, I, too, became belligerent. Our two families lived in a state of constant verbal warfare. Or we would not speak at all, even though our lawnmowers nearly rubbed wheels as we moved along our backyard battle lines.

Then last summer the couple went on a two-week vacation. At first I had not even realized they were gone. There had been no reason for phone calls, for two of my children had gone to their grandparents' to spend a few weeks.

I'd just finished mowing my lawn one evening when I noticed how high our neighbors' grass was. I was obvious to anyone driving by that they were away from home. In fact, it was an open invitation for a thief to break in.

I looked at that high grass, and my mind rebelled at the thought of helping someone I so thoroughly disliked. But the idea of helping him persisted. The next afternoon, Saturday, I mowed his lawn.

On Sunday afternoon I saw their car pull into the driveway. A few hours later, I heard a knock on the door. I opened it; my neighbor was standing there, an odd expression on his face.

"Jim, did you mow our yard?" he asked. It was the first time he'd ever called me Jim.

"Yes, George, I did," I said. His expression became even more puzzled. Finally he said, "Thanks," and turned and left.

The ice was broken. Oh, don't get me wrong. We're not playing golf together, and our wives don't borrow sugar yet. But at least we're making progress. We're grinning at each other now as our lawnmowers pass and we even say "hi" to each other.

Mine closing irks U.P. residents

HOUGHTON (AP) — Residents of the copper-mining area around Houghton have reacted with fear, disdain and anger to an announcement Universal Oil Products plans to shut down its Upper Peninsula mining operation because of a strike.

"It looks pretty bad. I don't know what to say," muttered one striking employee of the Centennial mine in Universal's Calumet Division at nearby Calumet.

"Shut it down. Shut it down," said a number of copper workers.

"Maybe if they shut it down, we'll get something better" than the copper employer, another striker said.

Universal Oil officials said Thursday they were preparing to close the Calumet Division facilities in Upper Michigan because of a 7½-month strike by some 1,000 members of United Steelworkers Union Local 4312.

The division, which had been one of the largest single employers in the U.P., operated copper mines, a smelter, a chemical products unit and other facilities in the mining area.

Meanwhile, a group of some 50 Calumet businessmen today set a public meeting in an effort to delay shutdown preparations and to attempt to get the company and union back to the bargaining table.

The businessmen also planned to discuss possible effects of a closedown by the Calumet Division. Invited to the meeting were union and management officials and representatives of area governmental units.

Bells tolled mournfully Thursday in St. Cecilia Roman Catholic Church at Houghton, where a smelter and mills are located.

The Steelworkers walked off their jobs last Aug. 21. After the 1,000-employee walkout, the firm permanently laid off about 70 workers.

Universal officials charged a "failure of the union to seriously negotiate about the company's offer." It said it offered a contract containing increases in wages and fringe benefits.

The firm accused the union of helping make profitable operations impossible in the Calumet Division.

The company said that at an April 2 meeting, union spokesmen indicated there was no possibility of resolving differences. Negotiations then were terminated.

Keweenaw Peninsula businessmen have talked pessimistically about the plight of the Calumet Division and economic conditions in the area in the recent past.

A number of workers have found work elsewhere, leaving their families behind or pulling up roots completely.

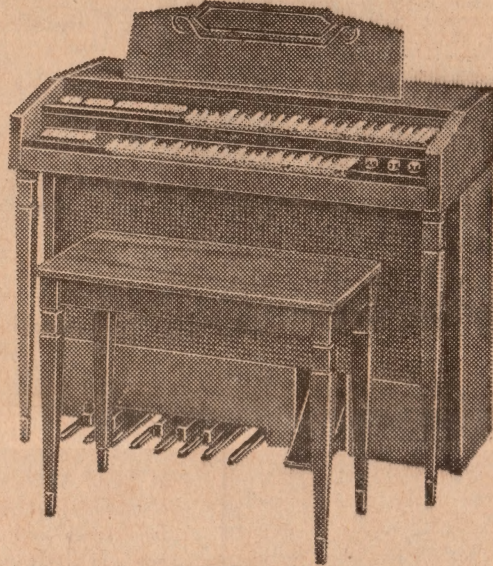

Churches offered special prayers on the outcome of negotiations. One church will emphasize the issue during its 24-hour Easter prayers.
